Man is incessantly progressing—

Always moving running pushing shoving cramming . . .

Always looking forward,

Always striving for the future,

Never quite reaching it,

Because there is always something more just beyond reach.

Now is a good time to look back, reach back grasping the past tightly and pulling it into the present so that you can see it more plainly.

Hold the places from your past right in front of your nose.

See how things have changed

—how big things have diminished

—how small things have enlarged.

See how trivia

has become importance.

See how importance

has become trivia:

The empty corridors

where you used to talk stalk
balk walk . . .

counting the laps before 7:55, counting the seconds before 3:08 . . .

sitting three to a seat on the tech school bus . . .

pushing in the lunch line making a contest out of gaining a place in line . . .

stretching every muscle and sinew in your body in gym class . . .

eating a drippy cherry popsicle . . .

singing in the chorus . . .

trembling in a math class that somehow lost you three chapters ago . . .

marching in the band . . .

selling hot dogs

at football games . . .

picking up soggy hot dogs

the rainy day after the football game.

Four years of trivia which have since become important . . .

Four long years which could possibly be the best four years of your life.

For his many hours of dedication . . .

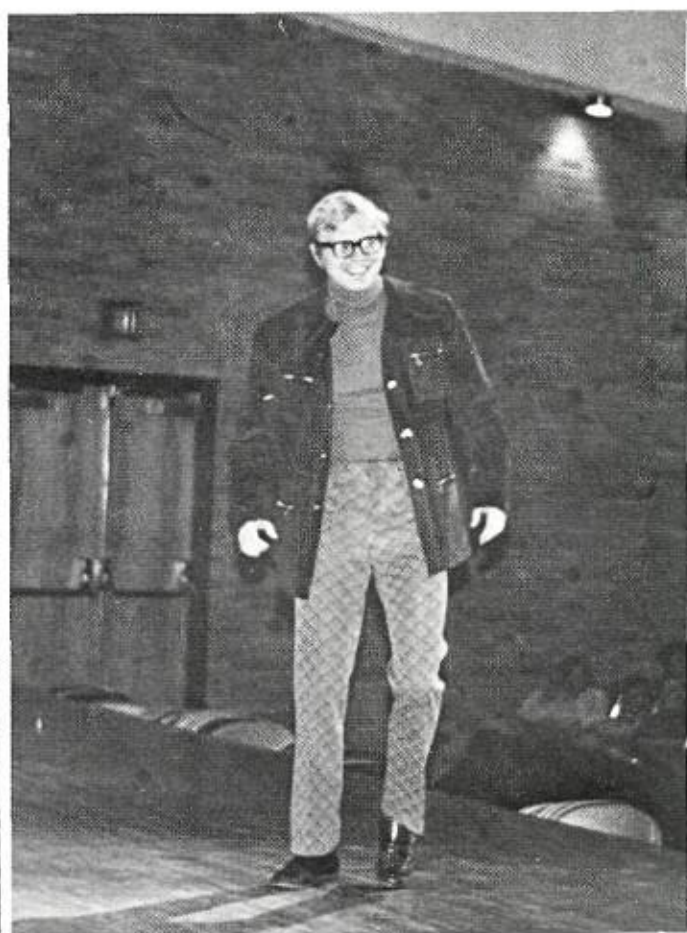

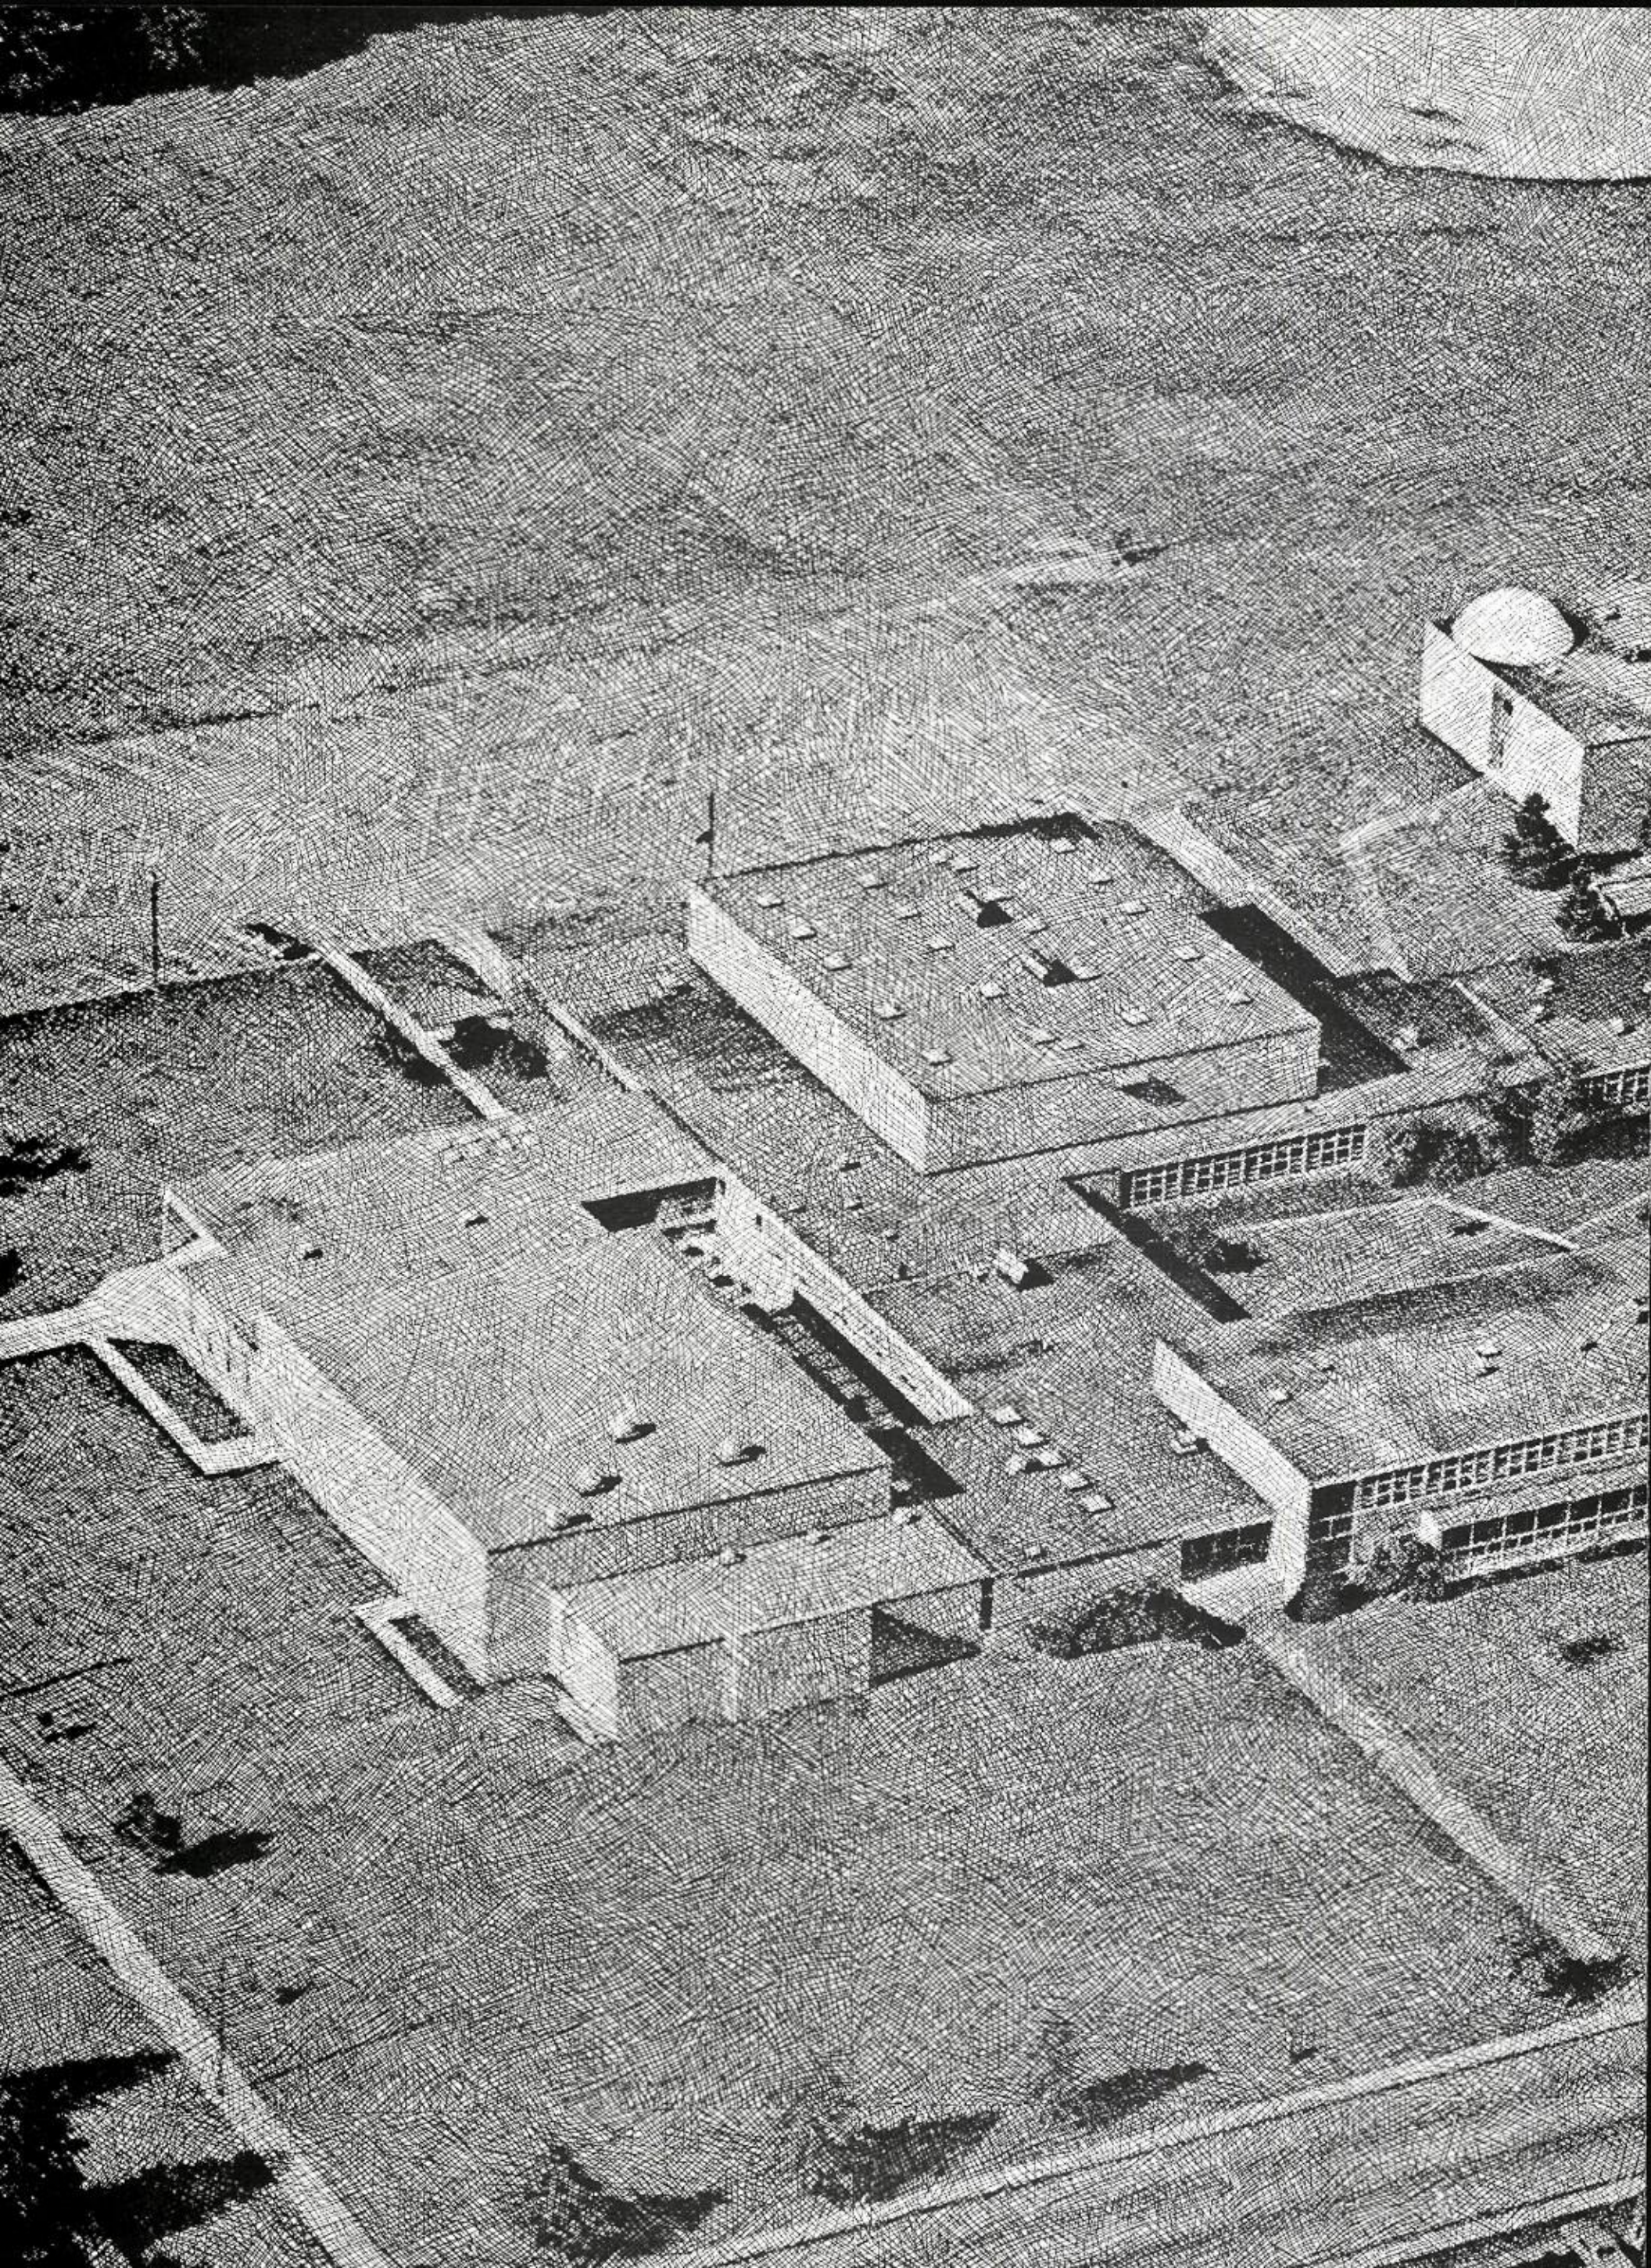

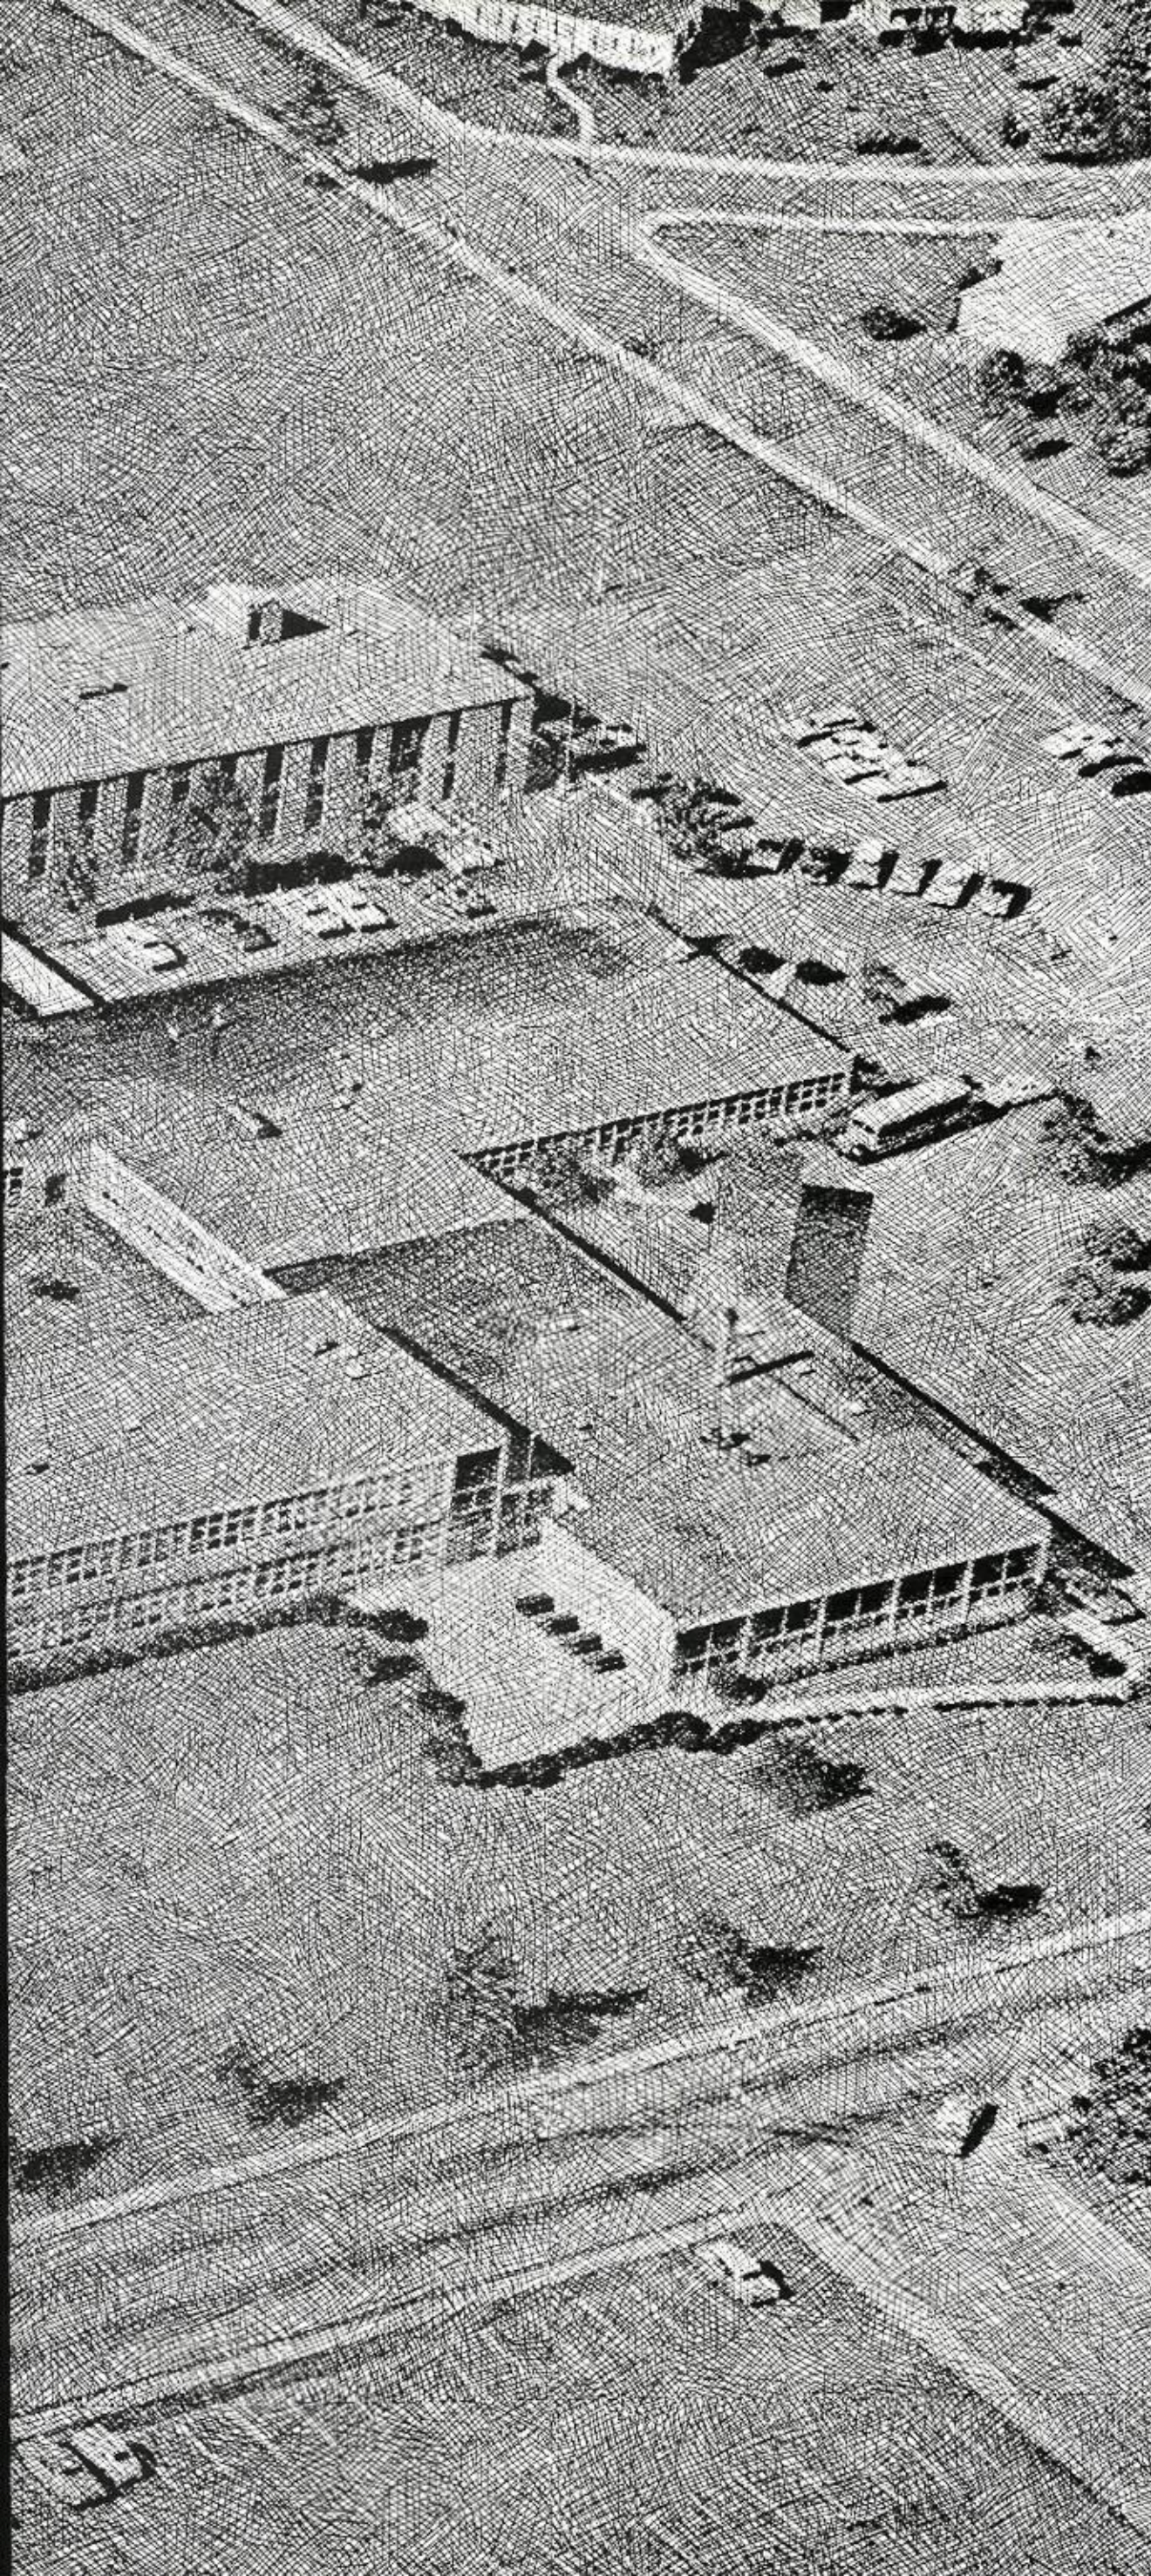

... We dedicate The RECALL

Mr. Taylor, our class adviser, has been the guiding force behind the strength of the class of 1973. His energy and enthusiasm was an inspiration to each and every member of our class as he wielded his influence in unifying our spirits. He conducted our numerous campaigns and money-making projects with the wisdom of a Wall Street financier. When he saw a growing lack of interest in school affairs among our various personalities, he decided to change it. He opened the executive committee to anyone who needed to participate in the decision making. Our large executive committee exemplified the spirit of involvement that Mr. Taylor instilled in us all.

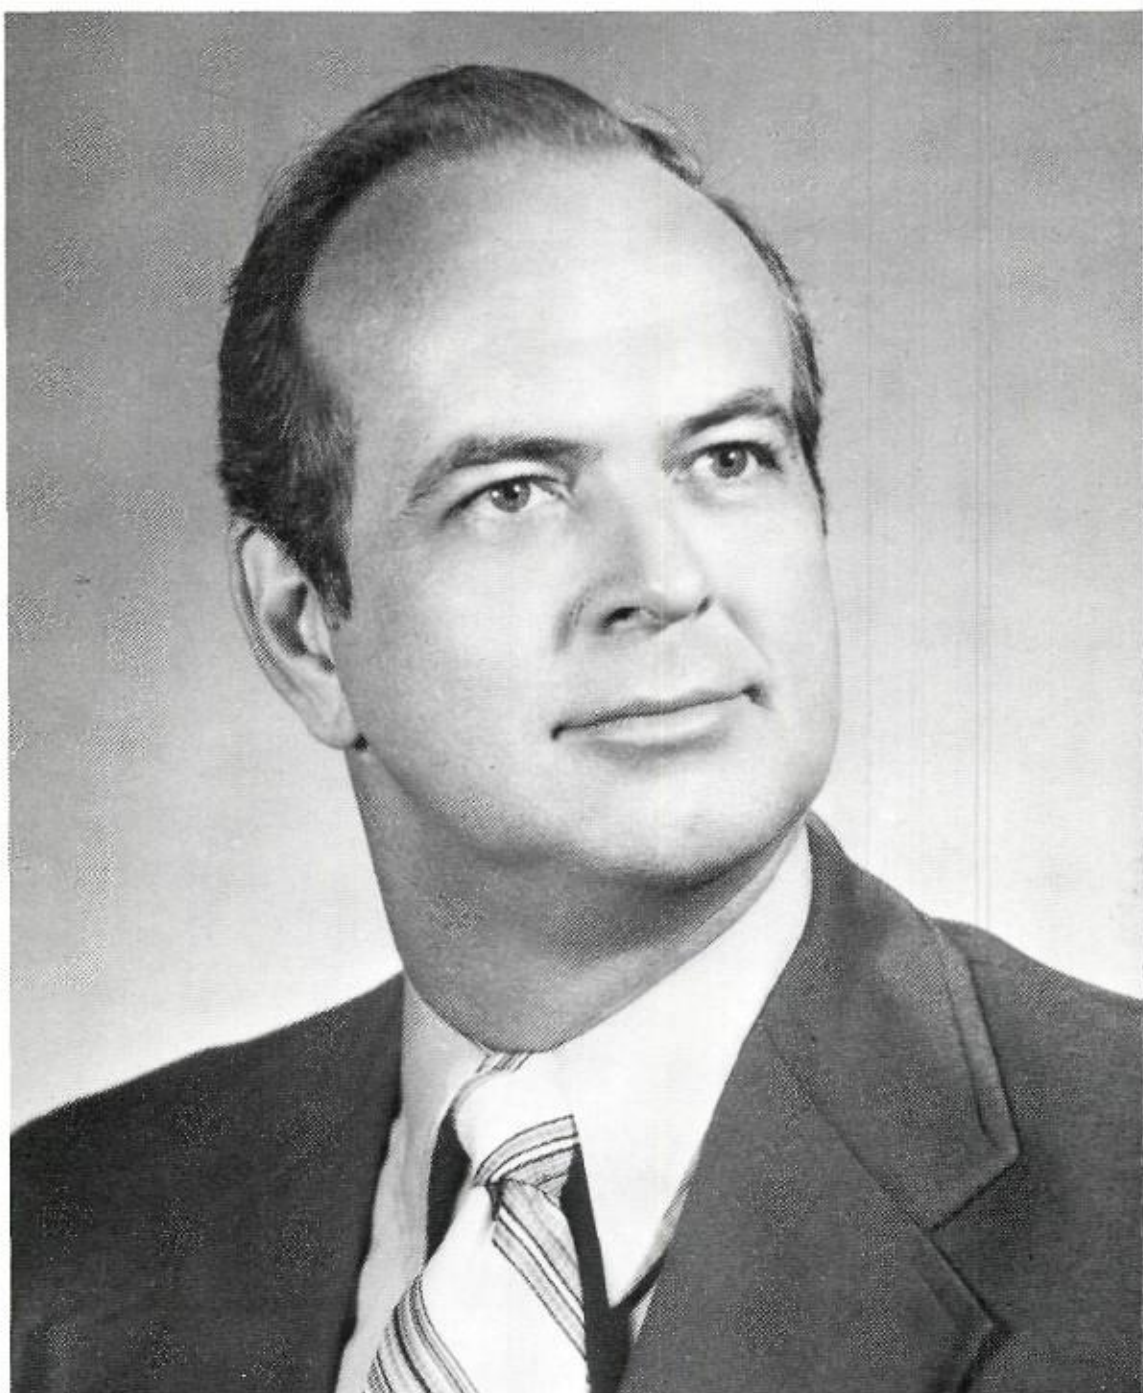

All class efforts became his personal efforts, and when work was imminent, Mr. Taylor was the first to take the initiative working side by side with seniors on the clean-up detail, in the concession stands, and in the classroom. This is our way of saying "Thank you!" Mr. Taylor.

The District Office
Administration
Coordinates the Educational Process

Dr. Jack D. Lawrie, Superintendent

Mr. Paul L. Barndt, Administrative Assistant for Pupil Services

Mr. C. Elwood Huegel, Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent

Dr. Donald Deep, Administrative Assistant for Curriculum and Instruction

Dr. Deep and Mr. Allen Fill New Positions in the District Office

Mr. George Allen, Business Manager

The district office staff, comprising of Dr. Jack D. Lawrie, Superintendent; Mr. Paul L. Barndt, Administrative Assistant for Pupil Services; Dr. Donald Deep, Administrative Assistant for Curriculum and Instruction; Mr. C. Elwood Huegel, Administrative Assistant to the Superintendent; and Mr. George Allen, Business Manager, is charged with the responsibility of making recommendations to the School Board concerning the educational program of the district, of carrying out the decisions made by the Board, and of coping with the myriad of concerns which a school district encounters each day. These administrators are well equipped and prepared to meet the new challenges they are called upon to face.

The educational backgrounds of these men indicate their wide, varied experiences and provide a sound foundation for decision-making. Attendance, personnel, curriculum, public relation, publications, pupil services, policy writing, transportation, and budget preparations are only a few areas to which they apply their expertise.

The High School Administration strives to make our school life pleasant.

The high school administration puts forth an immeasurable amount of time and energy to create a school environment which can deal efficiently with the concerns that arise. It must work harmoniously with the School Board in order to aid in decisions involving school policies and curriculum.

Our high school principal, Mr. Stephen Yurchak, along with our assistant principals, Mr. Raymond Ely and Mr. Syman Hirsch fulfill the duties involved in their administrative positions. Their major responsibilities include discipline, attendance to classes and school, the coordination and planning of assemblies, and supervision of the cafeteria and corridors.

As a result of their dedication and hard work our daily routines are both amicable and enjoyable.

Mr. Yurchak, Principal

Mr. Ely, Assistant Principal

Mr. Hirsch, Assistant Principal

Mr. Lesko, Mr. Williams, and Mr. Denlinger

Our guidance department is headed by Mr. Jay D. Williams. He along with the assistance of Mr. David J. Lesko and Mr. Wilmer Denlinger help the students of the senior high school prepare for and enter the world awaiting them. The seniors found the advice given to us by these men to be encouraging and a most valuable source of assistance. These men help many seniors enter the college of their choice and find post-graduate employment.

Their alertness, perserverance, and congeniality make the task of seeking advice pleasant, and therefore many students are able to find the answer that they seek.

The Guidance
Department helps us plan our future.

The ultimate responsibility for our educational provision must fall on the shoulders of the School Board

Dr. Shoemaker, Mr. Gladfelter, Dr. Lawrie, and Miss Moyer

School Board

The high standards of education provided to the students of the Quakertown Community School District are maintained through the leadership provided by the members of the Quakertown Community School Board and their implementation of the district's philosophy. Many hours are spent by the members of the Board in the making of decisions which directly influence the many and varied academic offerings students have.

Economic resources must be provided so that the quality education for which the district is known will continue to exist. New ideas and educational concepts are explored in an attempt to equip the students with the necessary abilities to find their places in the world.

The 1973 Recall salutes and thanks the Board members for their dedication and unselfishness.

We salute our faculty and pay a special tribute to Mrs. Marguerite Becker

Mrs. Becker is a retiring member of the professional staff this year after 39 years of service in the Quakertown Community School District. She has spent most of her life in Quakertown having graduated from Quakertown High School. She then went on to Temple University. Upon graduation from Temple she took a key position at the Atlantic City School of Business where she also worked in public relations. After teaching six years in the Atlantic City school she returned to Quakertown in 1934 to teach business subjects in the high school and take over the chairmanship of the Business Education Department, a position she has held ever since.

Mrs. Becker has been responsible for educating many secretaries, clerical workers, and business administrators in Quakertown and surrounding areas. She also places graduates and postgraduates of the school in suitable positions.

In 1972 Mrs. Becker was recognized as teacher of the year by the Future Teachers of America and presented with an honorary membership.

In addition to performing her duties as a teacher and department chairman, Mrs. Becker supervises the typing of copy for The Recall, the Quaker Challenge, programs for spring and winter concerts, lunch menus, and eligibility lists for every sport. She also has charge of securing patrons for The Recall.

Mrs. Becker also helps the senior class by supervising the managers who handle all funds and subscriptions for the annual magazine campaign in both junior and senior high schools.

Mrs. Becker is recognized here not only for her professional skills but for her humanitarian character. She has been a friend to all and a source of inspiration to all students and other affiliates.

... wield influence

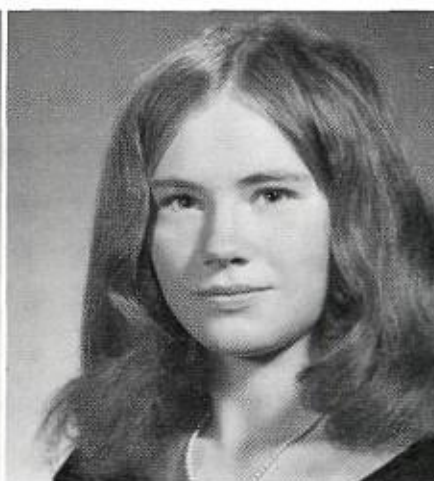

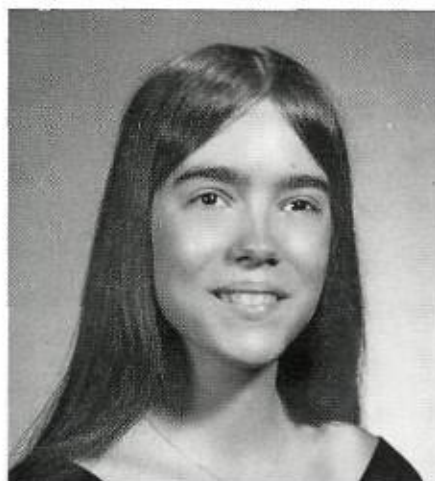

The Executive committee of 1973 epitomized the "power in numbers" concept. Our 55-member Executive Committee was the brain child of our class adviser, Mr. Taylor, who believed that the more students involved in the leadership of our class, the more we might accomplish. Throughout the years, the Executive Committee was responsible for selling pretzels, sodas, candy, hats, pennants, and tickets. With the support of the entire class, the Executive Committee launched such activities with great enthusiasm always achieving their goals. Leading the class were our officers: Craig Latshaw, President; Diane Serge, Vice-President; Melea Barto, Secretary; Nancy Benner, Treasurer. With their leadership, Mr. Taylor's guidance, and the cooperation of the entire class, we found our success surpassed our expectations.

"Hej! Jag trivs mycket bra i det här landet." It's Swedish and it means: "Hi! I really do like this country."

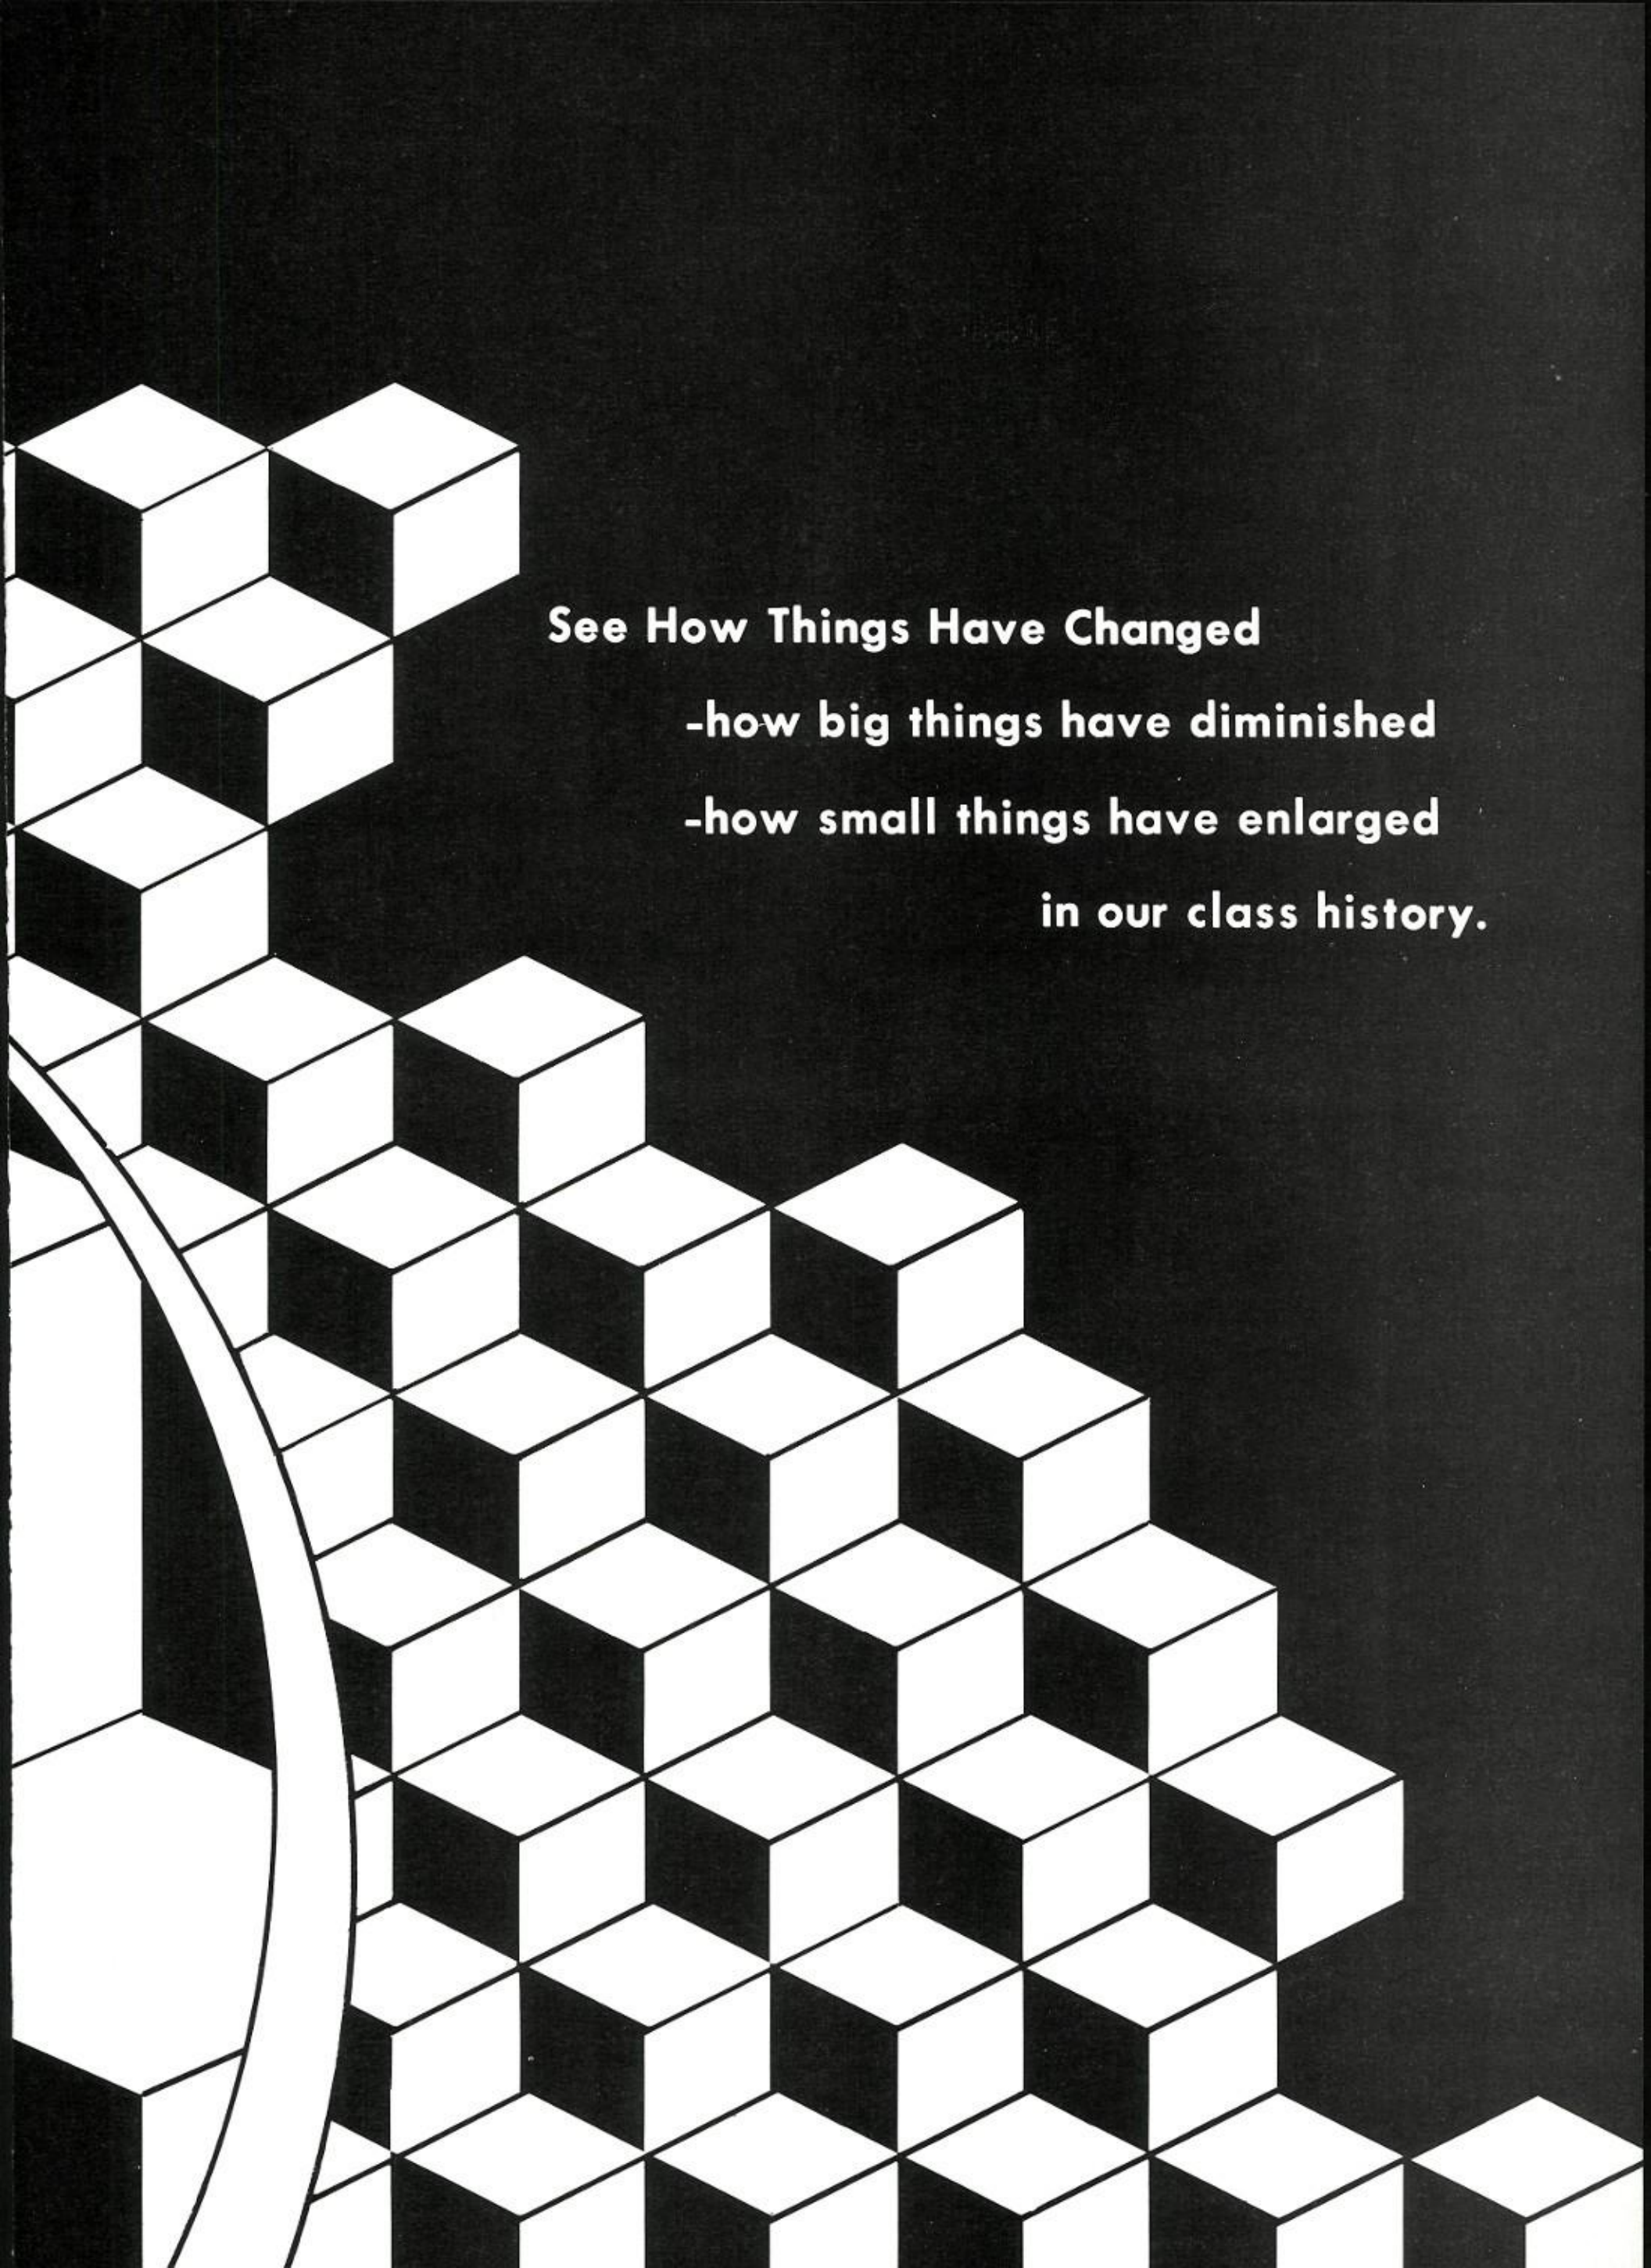

There were, of course, a lot of things that were different and that fascinated me when I arrived.

It's indeed a great opportunity Rotary International gives the youth in almost every part of the world to see different parts of "Mother Earth"—the various customs and traditions, the different ways of living, and other kinds of people.

See How Things Have Changed

-how big things have diminished

-how small things have enlarged

in our class history.

On our first day, we received a warm, reassuring welcoming speech, spiced with several jokes, and a clearly decipherable map which looked quite similar to ancient hieroglyphics. Our homerooms were centrally located three halls and two flights of stairs away from all our classes. As we made our way through the ominous halls, helpful seniors gladly gave us directions to the boiler room and rifle range. As we stumbled through the foreboding hallways and crowded classrooms, we became acquainted with the other 288 students with whom we were to spend the next four years of our lives. Our first year presented us with many privileges: we were the last class to be dismissed from assemblies; positions in the lunch line seemed to be based upon the "seniority rule"; and we were always referred to as "those ninth-graders."

After becoming acquainted with the routine, our sophomore year presented us with no great problems. Instead of the usual representative from each homeroom to make up our executive committee, Mr. Taylor, our exuberant class adviser, decided to let any interested student become involved in the action. Thus, began our "power-in-numbers concept." This strategy underway, nothing was unsurmountable. Our next step was the election of the class officers. Campaign speeches and slogans echoed through the halls supporting the candidates. After the big decisions were made, the results were: President, Craig Latshaw; Vice President, Diane Serge; Secretary, Melea Barto; and Treasurer, Nancy Benner. Bake sales, candy sales, football and basketball ticket campaigns, kept this "power-in-numbers" team busy throughout the year.

As "upper-class" eleventh graders, we frowned upon "those ninth graders" and took our proper positions in the lunch line. Our biggest project was the winning of the basketball ticket campaign. The successful campaign resulted in profits earned from the sale of candy, soda, hot dogs and pretzels at the home basketball games. It was never established which group ate more of the food—the fans or the salesman. As the athletes played basketball, the Thespians rehearsed for our junior play, If A Man Answers. The play was a grand success.

The monotony of the year was broken when a hypnotist came for a visit. The assembly proved to be educational as well as humorous when the hypnotist turned 17-year-olds into crying first graders and had people climbing chairs looking for mice. As the year drew to a close, we looked forward to the New York trip and the Junior Prom. New York was exciting and beautiful, unfortunately we couldn't absorb all of the new sights in one short day. The Empire State Building was jammed with curious Quakertown juniors. Radio City was as exciting as ever. The Easter show was spectacular and the movie "What's Up Doc?" held the attention of the class. The Junior Prom, held on May 5, 1972, was also successful. Senior Lori Hillegass was chosen as the queen, and her court of juniors included Wendy DeLan, Debbie Gross, Lori Kotulka, and Lynn Haring. The prom was a beautiful highlight and graceful closing for our junior year.

It was hard to believe we were finally seniors when September 1973 arrived. Football season meant selling more candy, soda, hot dogs, and pretzels; this time outside in the cold. Profits rose as eager seniors sold at home football games as well as Southern Lehigh games. Although the football team lost to Pennridge on Thanksgiving Day, the day was not a total loss. The high spirits of the '73 class could not be dampened for very long.

More profits were raked into the senior treasury during the magazine campaign. All the profits made from the campaign drifted into our pockets, gradually pushing us closer and closer to our financial goal. In mid-year, students as well as the public, roared as they watched the senior play, Charley's Aunt. Outstanding was Randy Bloch in his male-female role. Also in November, a specially scheduled assembly brought us the United States Navy Stage Band providing extraordinary rock and jazz music.

Finally, March 21 arrived and six chartered buses waited to take us to Washington D.C. as we crowded into the school cafeteria at 6 A.M. for role call. We were off on our long-awaited excursion of the capital city. Three days of hilarity among 240 enthusiastic seniors brought to a close one of the last episodes of our high school experience.

It was graduation day at last. The day we were waiting for—the day we will remember for the rest of our lives.

Planning Ahead for College and our Future . . .

After deciding on taking the route through high school that would prepare us best for a possible college education, we set about selecting our courses in the college prep curriculum back in ninth grade. We had to make several adjustments in our study habits as we started polishing our writing skills and analyzing such novels as David Copperfield and Huckleberry Finn. The Earth and Space Science course presented a new concept in learning—experiments galore! Our study of civics taught us the structure of our national government and our state government as well. We also started to become competent in a foreign language such as French, German, or Spanish. In Algebra I we learned the principles necessary for the study of higher math.

Then it was on to sophomore English with The Greek Way and Antigone. Biology proved to be one of the most challenging subjects. We used our inductive and deductive reasoning power in geometry class. In world cultures we learned an appreciation of all cultures in the world around us.

The year, which was to become the toughest, finally came. As juniors we picked up from Algebra I and began the rigorous topic of Algebra II. Working hand in hand with algebra was physics. We had to know enough math to compute the angle of refraction of a wave. We either had to set our writing skills to work in English or fail. It was our first attempt at an organized research paper, and a thought-provoking take-home test on The Scarlet Letter. Meanwhile, we were still increasing our verbal power amid synonyms and analogies. This proved invaluable when the time came to take college boards in April. Juniors were at last exposed to some advanced courses such as Advanced Biology. We spent weeks on the introduction to bacteriology. We also learned various dissection procedures including the dissection of a cat. U.S. Cultures took us through the post-revolutionary war period into contemporary events. We entered our senior year confronted with the laws of chemistry and tangents in trigonometry. And once again, the English curriculum included more difficult take-home tests on Beowulf, 1984, Lord of the Flies, and Brave New World. There were a large number of students enrolled in the Comparative Literature and Advanced Composition classes. Our course in P.O.D. gave us some insight into the laws of supply and demand, the stock market, and general world problems. We also learned how to make out our own income tax returns.

Some of us entered college the following fall; others who did not, were self-satisfied in that the education which moulded them for college would never be lost.

Every day held new surprises!

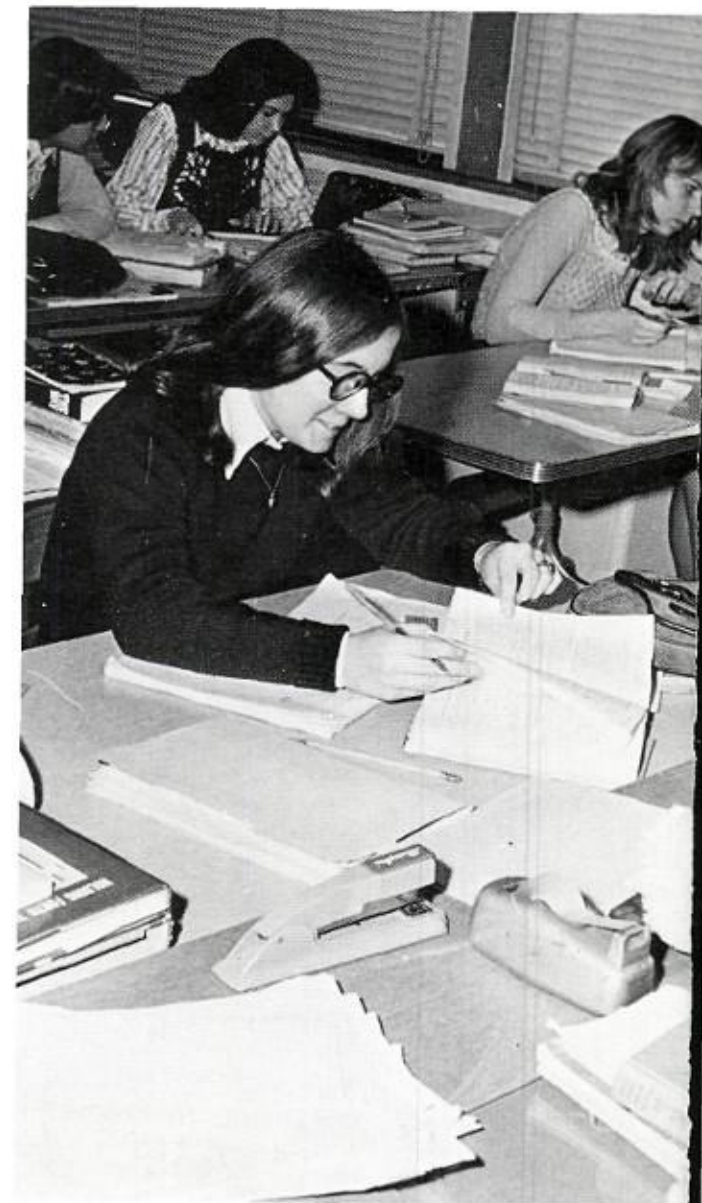

The inevitable tests.

BUSINESS EDUCATION

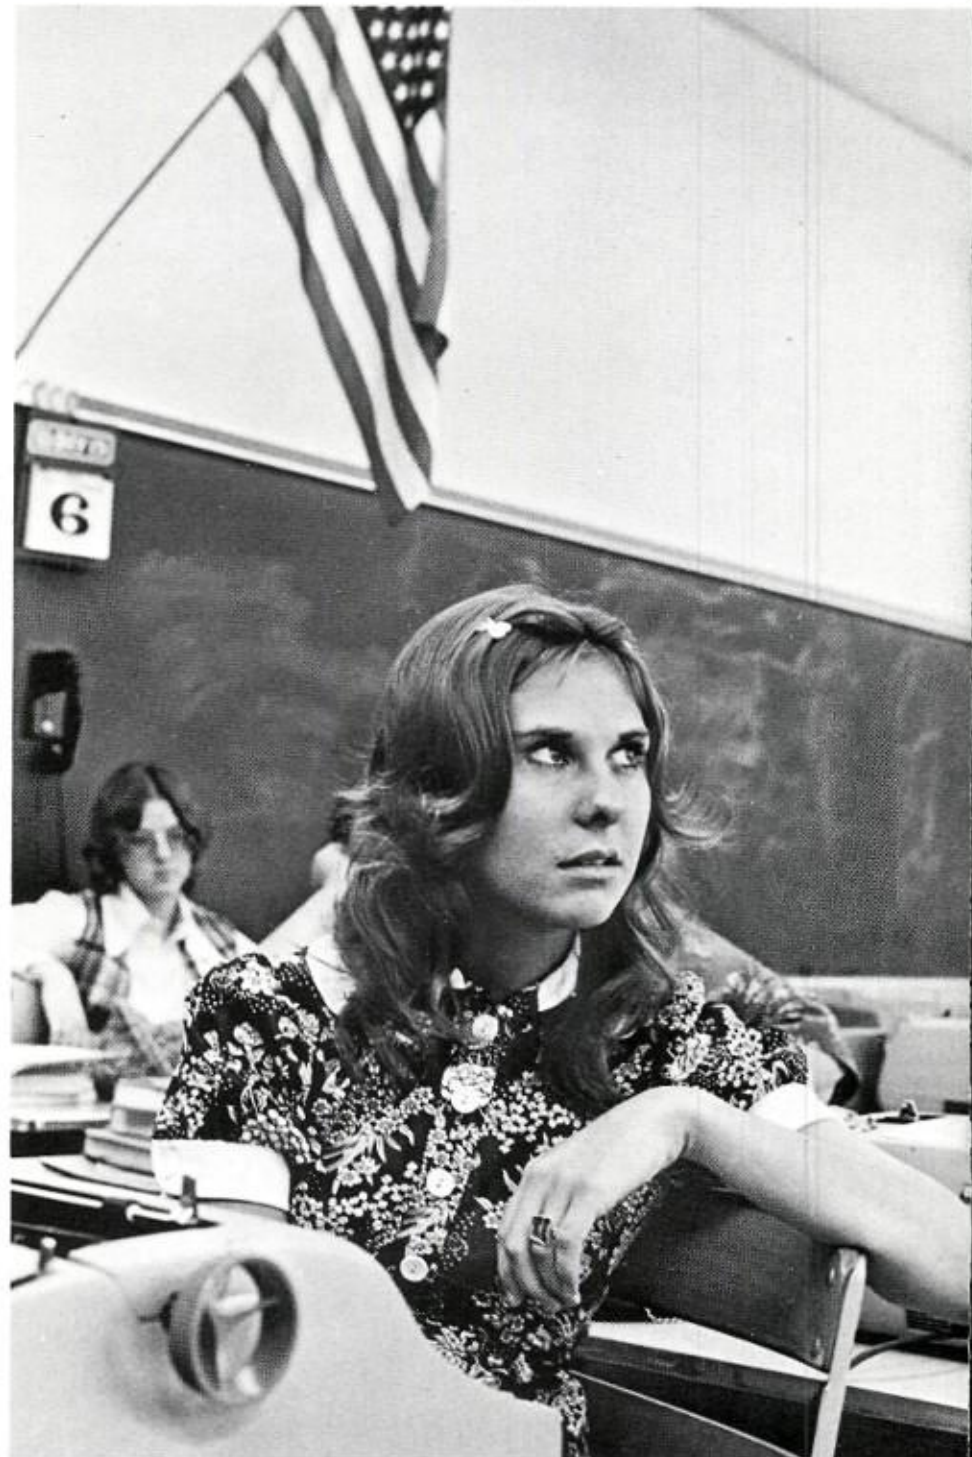

As we embarked on our business education back in our sophomore year, we were unaware of the great task ahead of us. The many hours of tedious labor necessary in acquiring efficient work habits in the business field presented a monumental challenge.

In our sophomore year we were introduced to Typing I and the ever-popular general business course. Our teachers were patient as we learned the elementary rules of business enterprise and basic typing skills.

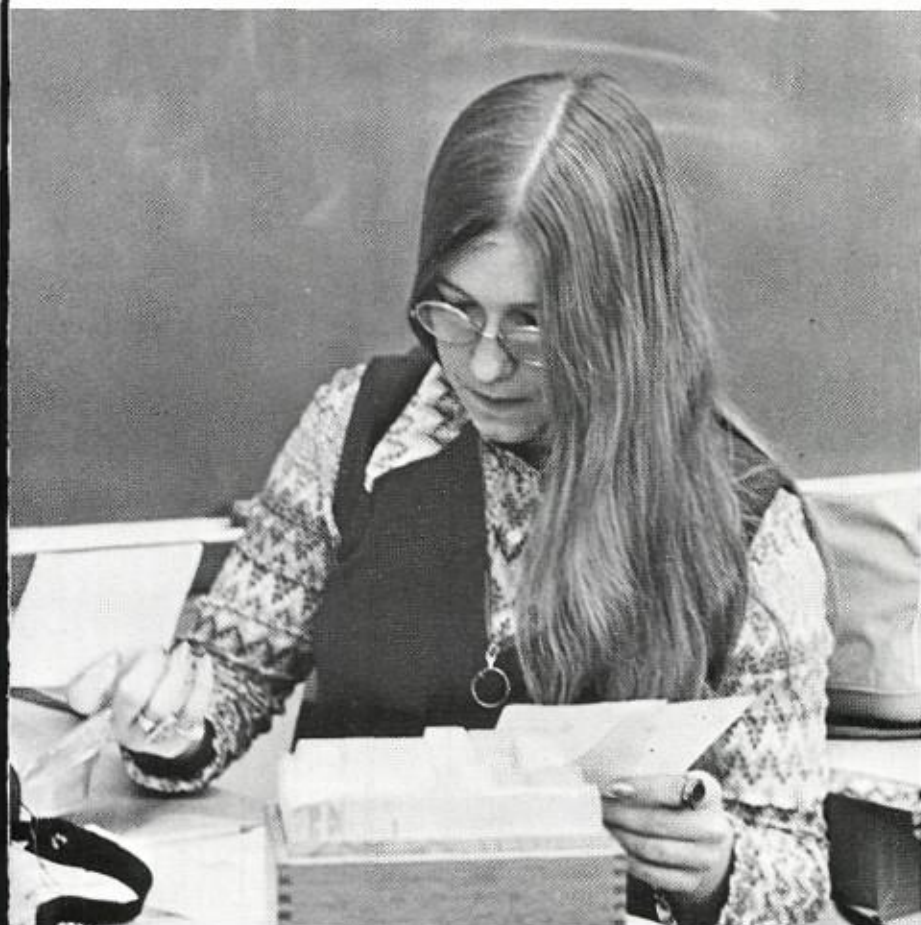

Our junior year was filled with such courses as Accounting I and our first bout with that "foreign language"—Stenography I.

Upon entering our senior year, stenography no longer seemed so foreign as we picked up speed in taking dictation and transcribing. Accounting I and II are basic courses for the business student and while both courses tried our patience and fortitude, we were gratified after having successfully completed these requirements. Office Practice was a new and different experience in our senior year. We learned about duplicators, mimeograph machines, preparing payrolls, filing, and many other skills necessary for working in an office. The Business Law course introduced us to the world of legal terminology. Along with business law, we studied business math where we reviewed our basic rules of mathematics and went onto a deeper study of business transactions which involve the principles of math. Last but not least, we had our three years of business English to teach us proper spelling, punctuation, grammar, and letter construction.

Upon graduation, many of us were employed immediately by local business concerns. Others went on to attain higher degrees in business education.

The General Course was geared to help us put our accumulated knowledge to practical use in the years to come. Students enrolled in this course were offered a great variety of courses chosen in accordance with aptitudes, needs, and desires.

Along with the required subjects such as English, history courses, and physical education, we had the option of taking other courses including art courses, home economics, business courses, and woodshop.

This diversification in our studies gave us knowledge in many different areas which would be benefiting to each of us in many different ways.

VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL SCHOOL

For those students who already know what career they would like to pursue after leaving high school, the Quakertown School System along with Pennridge and Palisades offers students participation in programs at the Upper Bucks County Area Vocational-Technical School. Here students learn the technical and vocational skills they will need upon graduation. Although most of us seek employment when we graduate, some, particularly those in the technical courses, continue their education in universities or technical institutes.

The Technical School is unique in many ways. Students from the three different schools are united in the common goal of obtaining a quality education. All students attend the tech school for one-half day training in their chosen fields. The other one-half day is spent at their home schools participating in basic courses of English, science, history, etc.

There are a large variety of courses offered at the Tech School ranging from Agriculture to Chemical Technology. In Agriculture and Horticulture students learn modern techniques in farming and landscaping. Students in Cabinetmaking and Carpentry, Machine Shop, Appliance Repair, Welding, and Printing are sought after by local industry. Auto Body and Auto Mechanics find ready employment with automobile dealers. The Distributive Education students are employed throughout the stores in the area to learn merchandising during their senior year. The girls in Cosmetology become licensed to work in local beauty shops, while the Food Prep students become cooks in the various restaurants in the area. The Health Occupations Course allows senior girls an opportunity to sample the medical fields and decide on a career. The technical courses of Chemistry, Data Processing, Design, and Electronics prepare a student to work as a technician, or to go on for further study toward a degree.

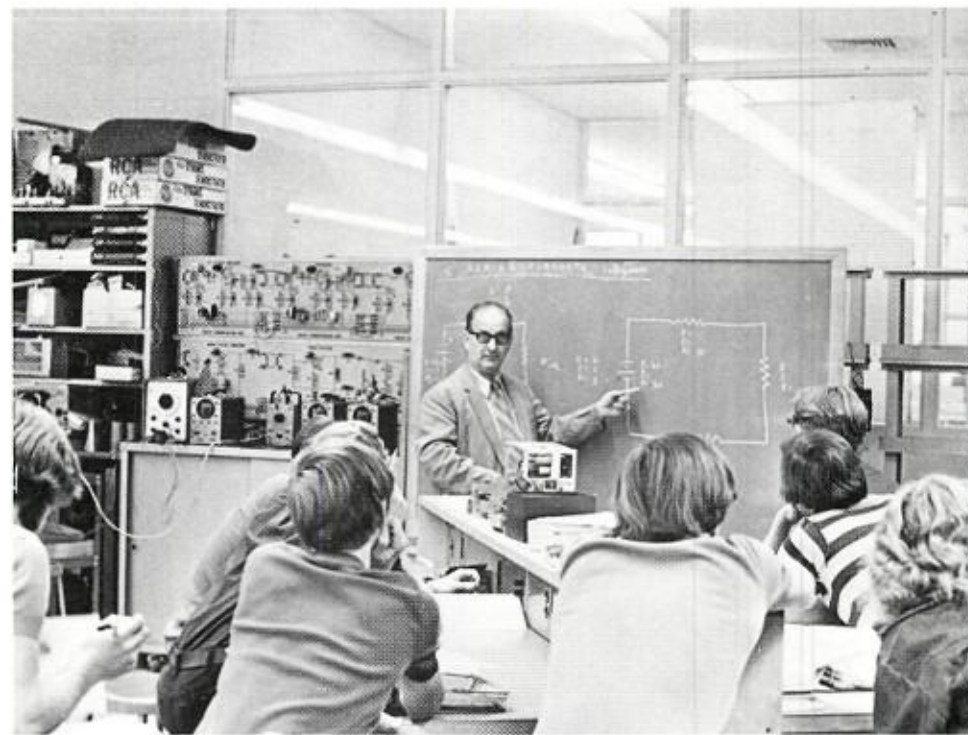

The Technical School also has a course in Aviation Maintenance which is taught at the Quakertown Airport. Here the Aviation Maintenance Technology students study an extra year after graduation to become licensed by the FAA as aviation mechanics.

The "Co-op" program at our school gives students a unique chance to be placed in a local industry in order to get on-the-job training in their fields. During the "tech" half of the school day they earn money for their work and are evaluated by their employers.

The tech school students have a student council of their own which iron's out problems when they do arise. The Student Council also supplies material for our student newspaper, the Tech-ni-Call, which is published by the print shop.

A new addition to the tech school is being planned presently which will increase the tech school's effectiveness.

RECALL

It is difficult to write a book about four years in the lives of almost three hundred seniors. The staff of the Recall has a monumental task in the organization, writing, assemblage, and distribution of the publication. Much is involved in the process, attempting to cram all the places and people from our past into one small volume. Meetings were held Thursday nights and any other weekday evenings that were available. To distribute the work involved in creating the Recall for 1973, eight staffs were created. The editorial staff headed the operation by coordinating each of the various staffs. The senior section staff organized all the material for the student personal section including portraits and personal write-ups for each senior. The extra-curricular activities offered by the school were covered by the members of the activities staff. The action of the various sports events was reviewed and written by our sports editors and staff. The art staff's talents helped in giving the Recall of '73 its own character and personality. The photography staff helped considerably by aiding in the picture taking and organization of photographs for the publication. The layout staff was one of the busiest, rushing to meet the deadlines. In charge of collecting payments and distribution for the finished publication was the circulation staff.

Thanks to the cooperation of these willing people, we were able to create a volume which meant something to everyone in the Class of 1973—a book of our classes, activities, friends, and most of all, our fond memories.

Student Council

The Student Council met once a month and when possible, twice a month. There were forty-two homerooms represented and led by the officers which were elected in our junior year. These were Chris Reichley, president; Craig Thatcher, vice-president; Marilyn Giedgowd, secretary; and Linda Kachline, treasurer. The Council was our hope of keeping the lines of communication open between students and our administration.

Chris conducted his first meeting in early October. Committees, such as Bulletin Board, Lost and Found, Communications, Assembly, and Foster Child were formed. It was decided by the Council to sponsor the same two foster children as the previous year, an American Indian girl and an Appalachian girl.

Chris and Craig met monthly in Doylestown as our representatives to the newly established Intermediate Unit Student Forum. Thirteen Schools are represented. From this group of students Chris was chosen as one of the two representatives from the forum to serve on a Student Advisory Committee appointed by the Secretary of Education in Harrisburg.

One of the first suggestions brought before our Student Council was the possibility of having a smoking lounge, and the permission to smoke at football games. From this a smoking committee was formed and a report on smoking was submitted to the Board and Council. Students for the first time because of Council action were allowed to use the bulletin board outside the gym for any items they wanted posted. Once again the Council sponsored the 1972 Football Queen and her Court, and at Christmas it donated $20 to the art department to be used in purchasing Christmas ornaments. The Communications Committee was very active. It worked on a report given to the Council on the subject of incomplete work and suspension. In early March a talent show was given for the student body and sponsored by the Council. The performing students had been auditioned by a Talent Show Committee. Many students from the Council and the student body went to Wilkes-Barre to help the flood victims.

The Student Council has involved itself as much as it could, but members feel there must be more importance associated with it. Perhaps, the Council left enough original and promising ideas to be explored next year.

The Quaker Challenge is a publication to which students can submit original poems, short stories, essays, art work, or any other materials for publication. It is unusual in that it is a literary arts publication rather than a newspaper. With this open stimulus for creativity, students are free to express themselves in written words or art.

Miss Tomcho, who was new to our school in September, was the adviser for the literary staff. This staff wrote, collected, and approved the submitted material. The art staff illustrated the poems, essays, and other student literary works under the direction of adviser, Mrs. Lohman. Mrs. Becker, adviser of the typing staff, receives credit for the final organization of typing and printing. The result is truly a unique media in which a student can demonstrate his individual prowess, and express his thoughts to others through the arts.

German Club

Officers: P. Smith, P. Quier.

The German Club is a relatively small organization under the guidance of Mr. Roman Greilinger. Although membership is small, enthusiasm is big, and various projects were undertaken. The club's purpose is to provide a better understanding of the culture and interests of the German people.

Officers were elected at the end of the school year last year. Newly elected were Pam Quier, president and Patti Smith, vice-president—secretary. Projects included a German carol sing, showcase displays, and language studies.

Ecology Club

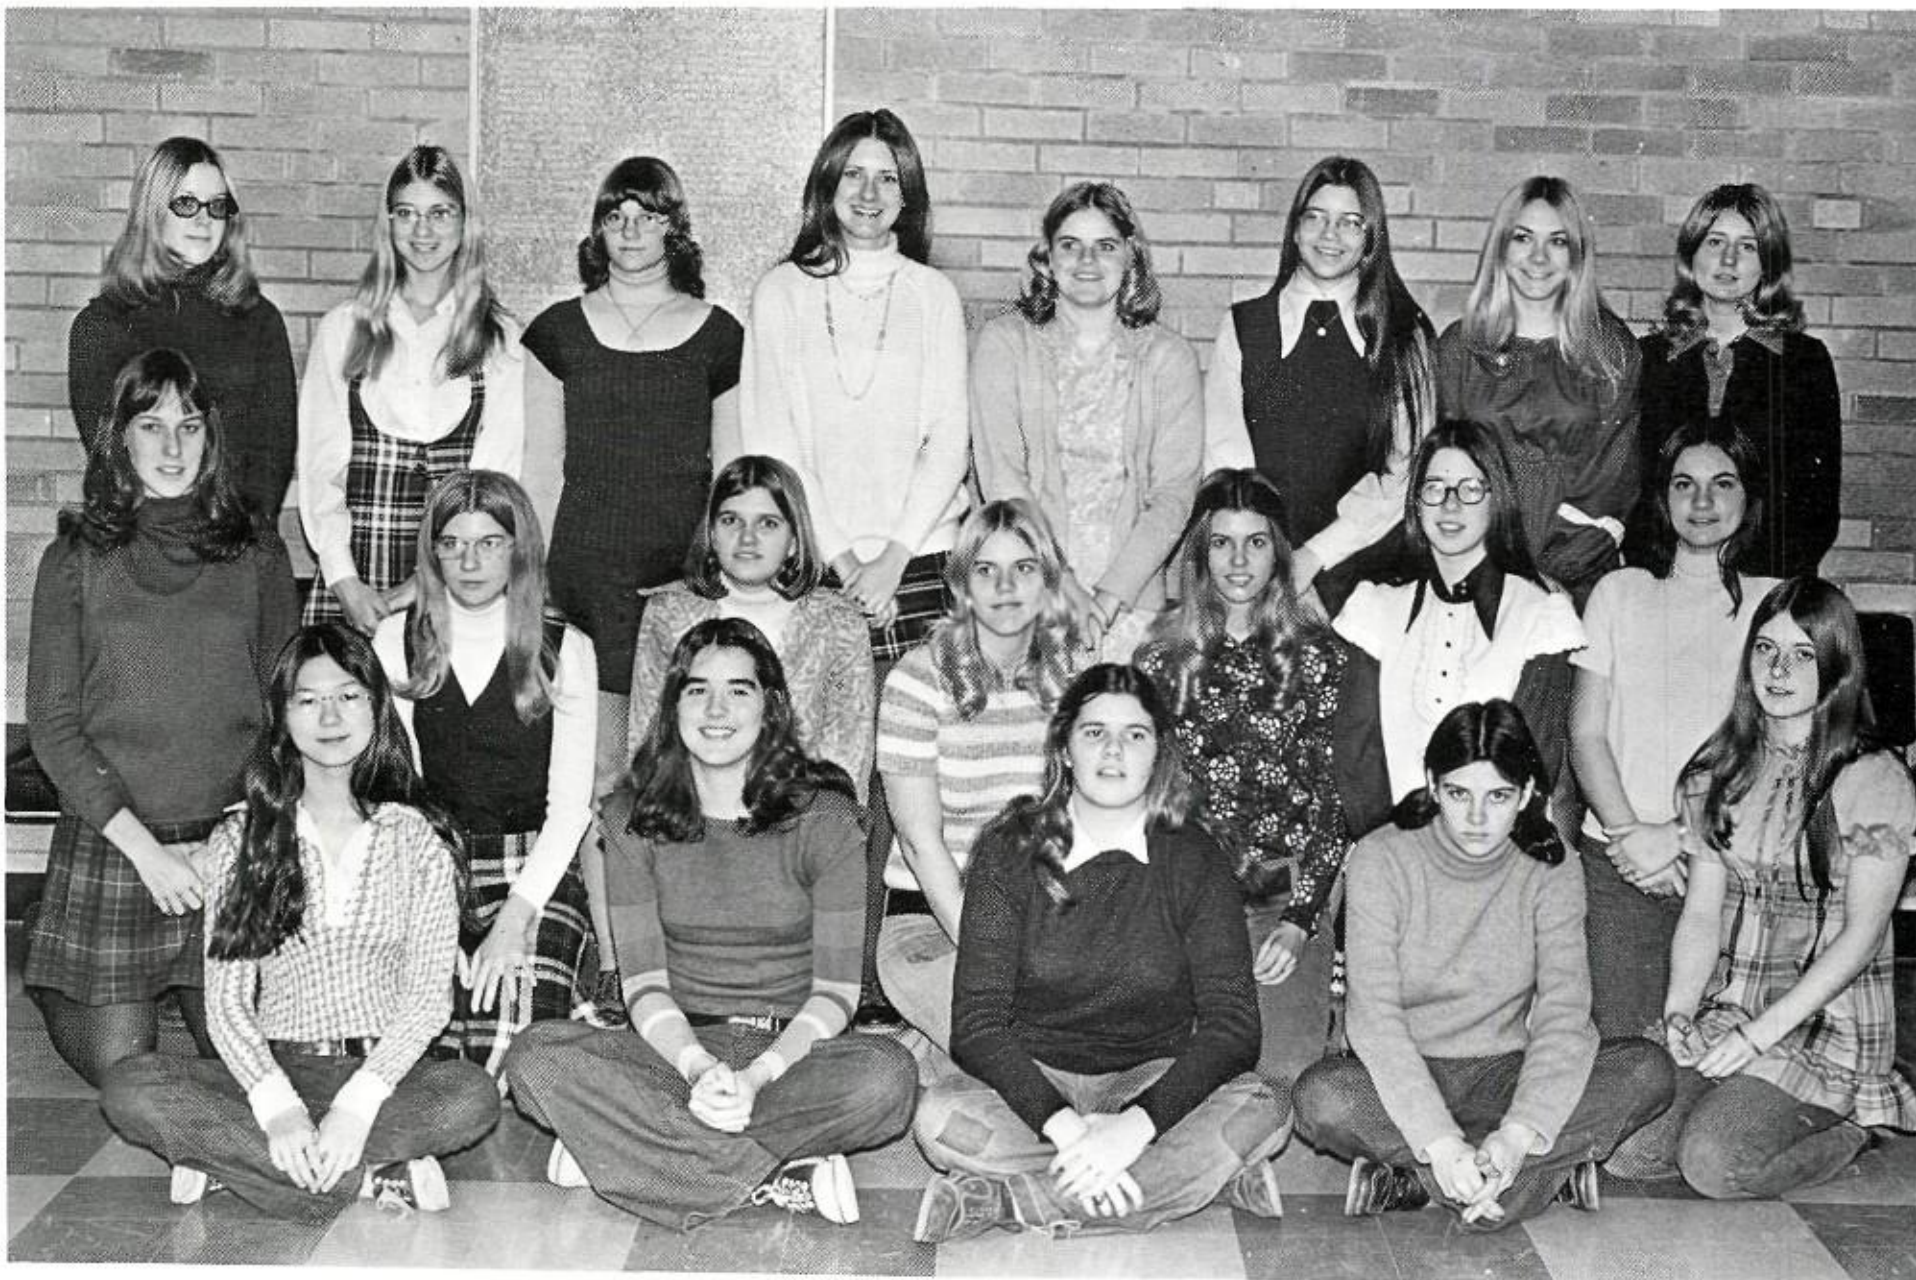

The Ecology club's function has been to help establish a more ecologically aware community. The most outstanding and successful activity undertaken during the year was monthly glass collections. Glass items exceeding a total of 100 tons were collected. The community was most responsive to the recycling project. Members were well aware of this as they struggled year-round in sometimes inclement weather to keep up with the huge flow of glass brought in to the collecting area.

The money received from the factories where the glass was deposited for recycling was used for worthy school and community projects. Among these projects were the donation of trees for the school grounds and a donation of ecology books to the school library. The club also sponsored Feed a Puppy Week, which was a fund-raising program for the Pennsylvania S.P.C.A. There was also some club involvement in the fight to save Quakertown's parkland. Plans were also discussed for the restoration of the Reading Railroad station, which has been a point of historic interest. The possibility of a school nature trail was another project planned for a future undertaking.

Our hard-working and inspirational advisers were Miss Mary Steckel and Mr. Robert Ruhl. The officers were Barbara Deuble, Pam Quier, Kris Hoffman, and Jan Poggi.

National Honor Society

The National Honor Society is composed of a select group of students from grades 10, 11, and 12. To be inducted into the Honor Society, a student must exhibit high intellectual aptitude in the classroom, initiative, leadership, and willingness to work. The pupil must also participate in extracurricular activities, whether they be athletic sports, clubs, or school services.

A student is inducted into the National Society at the end of either his sophomore, junior, or senior year, depending upon which year he first demonstrates the qualities necessary for acceptance into the Honor Society. He is chosen by a special committee of teachers, who evaluate him on the basis of his character and scholastic ability. They decide if he deserves to be named to this prestigious organization of high school students.

The honor of being accepted into the Society is often used by college admissions officers to help them choose outstanding students from the high school population. Being a member of the National Honor Society signifies reaching the highest plateau in high school scholastic achievement.

"Okay people, hum an A!" And with this familiar command from our fearless leader, Mr. Danny W. Tuck, the chorus began another Thursday night rehearsal. The hundred member chorus put in long hours in preparation for two concerts. The first was presented at Christmas, the highlight of the performance being Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors". Complete with costumes, scenery, choreography, an eleven year old Amahl (Doug Landis), ragged shepherds, and majestic kings, the play was the story of a crippled boy and his mother and the miraculous visit of the Magi to their home. It was received with laughter and tears by a delighted audience.

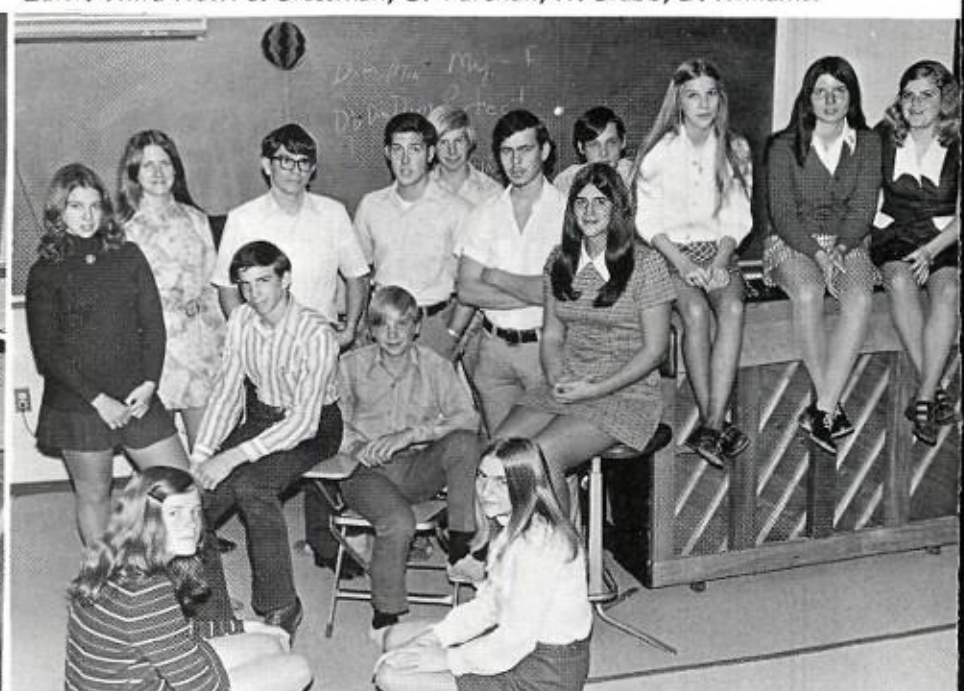

During the winter, several braver chorus members auditioned for various area choirs. Selected to The Bucks County Chorus were Alton Fly, chorus president; Weldon Crabb, vice-president; Nancy Benner, secretary; and Annabel Blyth. Darlene Lapinski, Pam Quier, Nancy Benner, Alton Fly, Annabel Blyth, and Olin Rotenberger were chosen to District Chorus, and Darlene, Pam, and Alton ranked high enough to go on to Regional Chorus.

The Madrigal Singers, a group of about fourteen selected from the chorus, performed in school and for local organizations and churches.

The Spring Concert, along with an art exhibit, was presented in May. The concert centered around the theme "Folk Songs from Many Lands." Both concerts were a success, and the concert closed another eventful and enjoyable year by singing at Baccalaureate and Commencement services.

... "Dress center dress!" ... "I'll give you two beats instead of counting out six!" ... "We're gonna march down to the end zone and go through the show up to 'Battle Hymn'!"

Starting in July, the QCSHS band, under the direction of Mr. Joseph Blewett and Mr. John Neu, could be seen faithfully marching and playing out on Alumni Field every Monday and Tuesday night. With the outside help of Mr. Richard Ackerman and Mr. Dennis Wimmer, the band put together an entertaining show which included such numbers as, "I want to be Happy," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Get It On," and "California Dreamin'." Due to the late arrival of the much-needed uniforms, the band entertained the public, clad only in white shirts and varying shades of jeans. Although arriving late in the season, the new uniforms added a new sparkle to the band. Under the student direction of drum-major, Debbie Heiss, the band ended its season with the Thanksgiving Day game.

With Thanksgiving in the past, the band began rehearsing inside to prepare for the winter concert. "Amahl and the Night Visitors" was the highlight of a successful winter festival of music.

Between Thanksgiving and Christmas, several auditions were held for musicians desiring membership in different bands. Rebecca Fisher was selected to represent Quakertown in the Southeastern District Orchestra. The festival was held at Central Bucks East High School. Six other musicians were selected to represent Quakertown in the Upper Southeastern District Band. They were: Diane Serge, Pam Quier, Janet Cressman, Pat Wilsey, Earlin Lutz, and Rebecca Fisher. The festival was held at Springfield High School. Those selected to represent Quakertown in the All Bux-Mont Band were: Diane Serge, Pam Quier, Janet Cressman, Pat Wilsey, Rebecca Fisher, Earlin Lutz, Lynn Blewett, Kim DeReiter, Sharon Brittin, Annabel Blyth, Debbie Heiss, and Rosemarie Stelmach. The concert was given at Souderton High School.

The band officers for 1973 were as follows: President, Pat Wilsey; Vice-president, Diane Serge; Secretary, Sandy Hixson; and Treasurer, Karl Musselman. Helping with all the operations of the band were the "Band-aides" which included Mary Ondra, Lisa Kennedy, and Peter Roeseler.

Following the basketball season, the band rehearsed in preparation for its annual concert. Also, rehearsals were

Majorettes

The majorettes, under the direction of Miss Cheryl Schantz, put in many long hours of practice learning new tricks and twirling fancy routines. The perseverance of these girls paid off with almost flawless performances.

Traveling with the marching band, this group of high spirited girls added sparkle to the football games and zest to several parades. They were featured in football games, two football pep rallies, one half-time show at a basketball game, and also the spring concert.

Color Guard

The 1972-1973 gun squad currently comprised of 13 girls has doubled in size since last year. The gun squad participated in numerous school activities including pep rallies and football pre-game and half-time shows. In addition, they performed in the annual Halloween parades in Quakertown and Pennsburg and in the Memorial Day parade in Quakertown.

Under the leadership of their captain—Yvonne Brzezicki and co-captain—Barbara Krown, the girls worked hard during the summer and after school to perfect and polish their routines.

The squad's hard work and practice that led to its successful performances was greatly appreciated by all.

Flags

The new attraction of the marching band this year was the flag section of the Color Guard.

Under the able leadership of Captain Debbie Bright and Co-Captain Marilyn Giedgowd, the squad began rehearsing in the summer with enthusiastic anticipation of the coming football season. After the start of the season, the girls continuously devoted their energy at timely rehearsals, always striving for perfection. Every game they displayed individual exuberance, yet retaining their coordinated moves and group harmony. A different routine livened each half-time show.

In addition to the entertainment which the Flags provided, they also brought a professional touch to the games and a change of pace to the pep rallies. They proudly represented the Blue and White at the Pennsburg Halloween Parade as well as the traditional local festivities. The girls put forth their final effort as they performed before the crowd at a basketball half-time show.

Newly introduced this fall, the group performed as expertly as though they had been long established. All that it took was hard work, time, imagination, determination, and most important—SPIRIT!

Cheerleaders

Our vivacious cheerleading squad inspired school spirit throughout the student body. During both football and basketball games, these ten girls plus one very agile panther led the fans in support of our team. After spending much time and energy in the preparation of cheers and pep rallies, they were greatly rewarded with enthusiastic responses. For the first time, an out-door pep rally was held on the football field. This variation in location served as a stimulating factor in attaining school spirit.

The season was highlighted by several creative "shaker routines." These were performed to popular tunes. The captain of the cheerleaders was Cathy Cain. Her efforts and devotion to the squad formed the foundation of their success. Whether victorious or facing defeat, the sound support of our cheerleaders was an ever present force behind our team.

The Art Service Organization is, as the name indicates, a school service group. The members, wearing their powder blue ASO tee-shirts, can be found constructing, washing, designing, and painting flats for the junior and senior plays. The Art Service Organization is advised by Mr. Kraft, Mrs. Sine, and Mrs. Lohman. If any art work needed to be completed, this spirited group was ready, willing and able to get the job done.

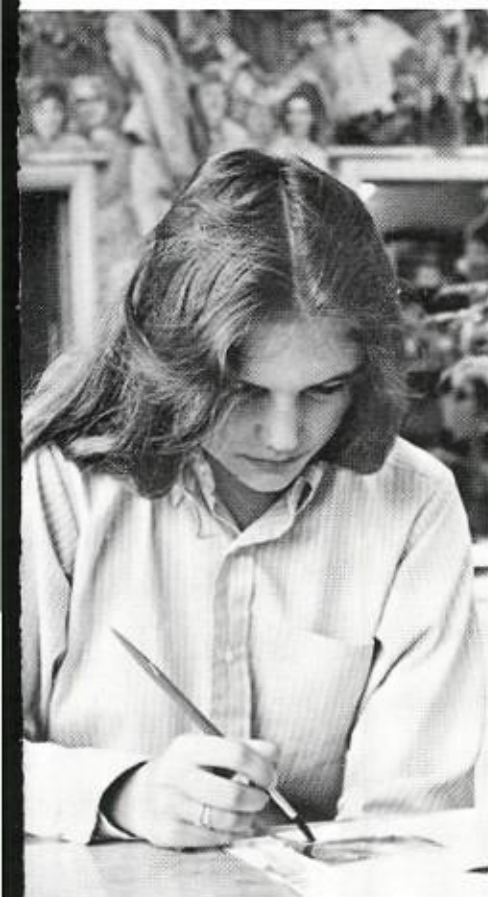

Officers were chosen in order to carry out the necessary tasks of the organization. They were Lynn Kennedy, president; Janet Cressman, vice-president; and Debbie Noblit, secretary-treasurer.

Adviser, Mr. Young

The Boys' Varsity Club is an organization of varsity athletes who have earned their varsity letters. The club is under the direction of head basketball coach, Mr. Young, and is led by their fine officers: Curt Barto, President; John Weierbach, Vice-President; Tom Yost, Secretary; and Dave Maugle, Treasurer.

The club exists for a multitude of purposes. Meetings are held once every two weeks to discuss business and money-raising ventures such as the sale of license plates and car stickers. The members often play volleyball and basketball after their business meetings are concluded.

Money is saved to buy useful equipment for the Quakertown athletic department, such as the universal gym which was purchased last year.

Girls' Varsity Club

Adviser, Mrs. Spayd

Girls who earn varsity letters in hockey, basketball, softball, tennis, and rifle are entitled to join the Girls' Varsity Club.

The Varsity Club has one fund-raising project each school year. For two weeks the students at QCHS can be seen juggling the money in their pockets searching for 50 cents to buy a famous Girls' Varsity Chocolate Candy Bar. The profit the girls make is used to buy the individual and all-around athletic trophies. Also, with the money from the treasury, the club bought identification bracelets for the senior members.

The highlight of the year is initiating the new members into the club. The candidates must wear absurd costumes and greatly exaggerated makeup. Each girl is required to carry around a container of candy which she must present to any girl who is already a member of the G.V.C.

Paula Montoney served as President of the G.V.C. this year with Kris Hoffman as Vice President, Kathy Dale as Secretary, and Valarie Huegel as Treasurer. The club was advised by Mrs. Jane Spayd.

Hi-Y

The Hi-Y is a long established organization of Quakertown High. During the year of 1967-68 the club was inactive, however. It was re-enacted in 1969, when the area YMCA was beginning to get a foothold in the Quakertown district. At that time, under the leadership of advisers Roger Hendrickson and Howard Porter, a group of eight freshmen decided to form a club which would serve the community and, at the same time, raise money for organized activities from which the club members would benefit. The original eight, consisting of Frank Cavanaugh, Curt Barto, John Weierbach, Tom Yost, Craig Latshaw, Dave Shoemaker, Dennis Rupert, and president Alton Fly, drew up a strict constitution, limiting the club to only members of the Class of '73. As the club expanded, and added new members, they realized that, in order for the club to continue after they graduated, they would have to enlarge the membership to include boys from younger classes. This was done and today the club contains over 30 members. Many of these boys are juniors and sophomores and will take over the responsibility of maintaining the club when the original eight founders and the rest of this year's senior members graduate. The present officers of the Hi-Y are president, Dave Magargal; vice president, Mike Loew; Secretary Mike Linsenbergler; and treasurer, Dennis Rupert, all seniors.

Throughout its four years of existence, the Hi-Y has performed many fund-raising projects for the purpose of serving the community. These projects include repairing the fence around the baseball field in Memorial Park, repainting the YMCA office, arranging bus trips to athletic events in Philadelphia, and holding numerous community car washes and cake sales. With the money obtained from this work, the club organizes activities for its members. Such activities include bowling, basketball, volleyball, and camping trips. A large portion of the profit is donated to community clubs, and about $200 is saved each year to send a select number of delegates from the club to the statewide convention of Hi-Y clubs at Harrisburg. This year's delegates are Eugene Kotulka, Dave Magargal, and Tom Yost.

Tri-Hi-Y

Under the guidance of Mrs. Janice Peischel, the Tri-Hi-Y endeavors to develop Christian character throughout the home, school, and community. The group ranked as the largest organization in the school, consisting of about 100 members from grades 10, 11, and 12.

Meetings, both informative or fun, were held once a month under the leadership of the club officers: Debbie Gross, President; Matti Smith, Vice-president; Lori Kotulka, Secretary; Edith Berzins, Treasurer; and Debbie Young, Chaplain.

The Tri-Hi-Y as an affiliate of the Y.M.C.A. extended their goodwill from the school to the community. Incorporating their efforts with the Hi-Y, the Tri-Hi-Y sponsored a hoagie sale for the building fund. At Christmas time, caroling voices of Tri-Hi-Y members brought the joy of "knowing someone cares" to the aged at a local nursing home.

Through their association with the Tri-Hi-Y, the girls learned to work together in harmony and share part of themselves with others.

Quill and Scroll

Quill and Scroll is an International honorary society for high school journalists. Members of the staffs of the Quaker Challenge and Recall who are juniors or seniors, who are in the upper third of their class scholastically, and who have shown superior work in some phase of journalism are recommended by the adviser of the publications for membership. Members receive a gold or silver pin or charm and a subscription to The Quill and Scroll magazine. This year's new members are Patti Smith, Deborah Gross, Joyce Flack, Bruce Conway, Lynn Kennedy, Jennifer Geiger, Janet Cressman, Robin Stover, and Liz Cressman. The faculty adviser is Mr. Willey.

Future Business Leaders of America

The Future Business Leaders of America consists of students in the Business Education course and also students who have taken part in at least one business subject. The group seeks to develop leadership and skill in the business field. It helps students prepare for what they might encounter in the business world.

This year the FBLA sold candy with the Girls' Varsity Club. It was the major fund raising project of the year. The members took part in the Spring and Fall Regionals. The club also sent Mrs. Barndt and Brenda Moser to a Leadership Training Lab at Robert F. Morris College in Pittsburgh in the fall of the year.

Beside just benefiting ourselves, we also gave food contributions to needy families at Thanksgiving.

Our successful and rewarding year would not have been possible without the leadership and willingness of Mrs. Jane Barndt.

This year's officers are: Denise Benner, President; Bonnie Bauman, Treasurer; Linda Afflerbach, Secretary; Mary Ann Crouthamel, Vice-President.

Future Homemakers of America

Seated: M. Ferguson, H. Bolton, E. Conway. Standing: I. Csondor, B. Matthews, V. Myers, D. Brzezicki, L. Eisenhart, S. Hoch, Mrs. Scherer.

The girls who joined the Future Homemakers of America did so because they realized a need in their growth, not only as housewives or home economists of the future, but also as active participants in community activities. The members, with Mrs. Scherer as adviser, participated in discussions concerning the problems of young adults in the complex world. The discussions were designed to prepare them in becoming more involved citizens.

The FHA also concerned itself with various service projects. These included visiting convalescent homes, preparing a tea for new faculty members, conducting a bake sale, and making a dinner for the mothers.

Officers this year were: Hester Bolton, President; Irella Csondor, Vice-president; Sue Hoch, Treasurer; Bette Phelan, Secretary; and Dorothy Brzezicki, Historian.

Future Teachers of America

Future Teachers of America offers opportunities to explore the teaching profession and the field of education in general.

Under the guidance of Miss Margaret Martin, adviser, and Mrs. Elaine Booth, co-adviser, the club sponsored various activities. The Initiation Tea on January 18, installed the new officers of the club: Debbie Young, President; Donna Wetzel, Vice-president; Robin Roth, Treasurer; Lynn Poulton, Secretary; Beth Teele, Historian; Linda Geiger, Reporter.

In order to pay for visits to colleges in the spring, the FTA held fund-raising activities such as a hoagie sale and a bake sale. The college trips were designed to give members some insight into college life. Small colleges as well as large universities were selected for visitation so that members would have a chance to inspect an array of campuses.

The highlight of the year was the student observation in elementary and junior high school. All seniors and a few junior members were eligible. Members had the opportunity to choose the grade they would like to observe and then did so for a day. This hopefully encouraged and introduced a member to the real challenge he is accepting as he steps into the teaching profession.

Future Nurses of America

The Future Nurses of America has traditionally been a group of girls intent on a career in medicine. The club activities, however, covered not only nursing but also included many other areas of professional employment in connection with medicine and science. The girls were supervised by Mrs. Judith Tucker, the school nurse.

Most of the club members found time to work in the nurse's office by relinquishing their study periods. While working as assistants, they acquired invaluable experience which led to their understanding of the problems involved in a nursing career. Most of the staff helped to give the Tine tests during the year and aided with vision screening.

As a goodwill project, the club assembled paper Santa Clauses filled with candy which were presented to residents of the Belle Haven Nursing Home at Christmas time.

The officers were: president, Lori Kotulka; vice-president, Diane Strawsnyder; and secretary-treasurer, Leslie Hauser.

Library Assistants

The library assistants are headed by the capable librarian, Miss Treffinger, and the library assistant, Mrs. Bingham.

The senior members include: Jeanne Guleke, Audrey Heschl, Cynthia Ondra, Sharon Schweighofer, Cathy Steeley, and Sharon Weaver. Nine underclassmen make up the balance of this efficient team. Sophomores—Hester Bolton, Irella Csondor, Karen Deuble, Leslie Fountain, Vicki Myers, and Liz Skabowski. Freshmen—Bonnie Deiley and Lisa Tarantino.

The library assistants' work involves checking out books, collecting and recording fines, filing every type of book imaginable, and generally helping out with the less responsible jobs of the librarian.

The girls donate either part of their lunch period or their entire study period to the library work.

The assistants not only gain valuable knowledge by working in the library, but learn to assist the many interested students who flock to the school's center of culture.

Audio-Visual Crew

The Audio-Visual crew is another service club of the Senior High School. These diligent students sacrifice much of their free time in order to provide sound and light for school functions. Eleven students are in charge of the lighting and amplification for plays and assemblies, and control timers and speakers for sports activities in the gym and on the athletic field. During studies and lunch periods, the crew members can be found in the AV room checking tape recorders, projectors, microphones, record players and various other equipment. Mr. Starr supervises the staff members, but it is the individual staff members who are basically responsible for the efficiency of the organization.

Photography Staff

The Photography Staff is a service and educational organization. The staff aids Mr. Klawitter, the staff adviser, in taking pictures of the various sports teams. These pictures are developed by the staff members and distributed to the team members at a minimal cost. Other pictures taken by Mr. Klawitter and the staff are sent to the newspaper in order to inform the community of school functions and individual student honors. The staff also provides pictures for the two school publications, the Quaker Challenge and the Recall.

The club has inspired some students to attempt individual study of photography. Members participated and achieved honors in the Scholastic Art and Photography awards, a regional competitive exhibition.

Planetary Staff

The Planetarium provides an educational and entertaining experience for the school district and the community. The Planetarium Staff, with Mr. Griffith as adviser, assists in the programming and upkeep of the planetarium and its complex equipment. In order to create the slides and programming equipment necessary to good planetarium shows, the staff members give up much of their free time. These shows are offered to students from kindergarten to the senior high grades. By viewing the stars and planets on an almost three dimensional sky, students are enriched by the ability to visually study the science of astrology.

Ski Club

The ski fanatics of Quakertown High School clamored three years for group skiing and student rates. The opportunity finally came in '73 when our own troop of ski bums in categories ranging from "snow bunnies" to experts was organized and was officially dubbed "The Q.C.H.S. Ski Club."

The winter of 1973 was the worst possible one for ski enthusiasts since there was no measurable snow falls in the Philadelphia area for the entire season. The club had to rely on man-made snow. Members headed for the hills every Wednesday afternoon when enough snow stuck to the slopes. In addition to partaking of the reduced rates, the snow fans benefited from the instruction provided by master skier and adviser, Mr. Little, and super, sensational skier, Pete Davis.

Even though the freak winter disappointed the avid skiers, the '73 season brought to Q.C.H.S. the advent of the Ski Club.

Football

The 1972 Quakertown football team went into the season with great expectations, to say the least. Back from a 1971 third-place team were 15 lettermen including Bob Barndt, Craig Latshaw, and John Hilgarth, three of the Bux-Mont league's offensive statistical leaders as juniors. Complementing this talent was an experienced forward wall and defensive corps, and the Panthers—at least on paper—rated as a certain contender for 1973. They were, in fact, ranked number two behind Central Bucks West in the pre-season poll.

And so, with championship possibilities, the team started the season with one of the hardest pre-season training camps in years. They worked and sweated for two weeks and on September 15th, they were ready for their first game with non-league opponent, Emmaus.

Bob Barndt showed a taste of what was to come in the 1972 season by romping for 193 yards, and the Quakers beat the Hornets 14-8. The Panthers had no time to celebrate, however, for the seven short days they were to face their probable opponent for the championship, Central Bucks West.

Doylestown's War Memorial Field was packed the night of the game, but the intense battle they expected to see never materialized. C. B. West had field position most of the night against the Panthers, and the Quakertown offense never got untracked. The Panthers suffered a heartbreaking setback 31-14 and could only hope to win the rest of their games, and pray that someone else could knock off West.

They began in fine fashion, smashing North Penn, Central Bucks East, and Upper Perkiomen. But then, something happened. In the first tight game of the season, the Panthers failed to respond to the pressure, and were upset by Souderton. A week later, the same thing happened, this time to high-flying Wissahickon. The Panthers were favored in both these games, yet for some reason, they could not pull them out despite the fact that they were both at home, before partisan crowds.

A week later, the Quakers travelled to Hatboro-Harsham and, as it turned out, so did their jinx.

The Panthers came out early and strong, getting a 14-0 lead on an end-around by Curt Barto and a slash-in from the one by premier winner, Bob Barndt.

Hatboro countered however, with a 51-yard T.D. pass play to make the score 14-7. The Panthers got the ball back with the ensuing kick-off but promptly fumbled it away and gave Hatboro a chance to tie. The enterprising Hatters took advantage of this situation and scored on a 17-yard play with only 7 seconds left in the first half. Halftime score: 14-14.

The two teams battled through a scoreless third period and in the last stanza things started to happen. The Panthers started a drive but it again ended prematurely with another Quakertown fumble, bad pitchout from John Hilgarth to Craig Latshaw. It took Hatboro only 4 minutes to capitalize, and they took the lead 21-14.

All of a sudden the Panthers, who were running and passing through the Hatter defenses all day, only to be stopped by their own miscues, looked up at the clock and saw they were down by seven with time running out. The determined Panthers prodded to march 67 yards in 15 plays to the one-yard line where Barndt crashed through with 32 seconds left in the game to make the score 21-20, Hatboro.

It was decision-making time for head coach, Frank Prusch. Should he kick the extra point for an almost sure tie, or should he try the more risky two-point conversion from the two yard line for the win. Not one to sweat through two hours and then settle for a tie, Coach Prusch decided to go for the two points. Now he was faced with another problem. How? He knew the Hatboro defense would be keying on Barndt, yet the senior had rushed for over 200 yards that day, and the Hatters had found no way to stop him. But the Panther coaching staff felt that the element of surprise was stronger than the rushing at Barndt and so they decided to outwit the Hatter defense, with a pass play.

Quarterback Hilgarth snapped the ball and faked to Barndt who was immediately converged upon by the Hatter defense. Hilgarth rolled right, looking for an open receiver in the end zone, but the Hatboro secondary had recovered amazingly quickly from the fake to Barndt. Running out of room on the right sideline, all his receivers covered, Hilgarth tossed a desperation pass which was intercepted in the endzone. For all intents and purposes, the game was over.

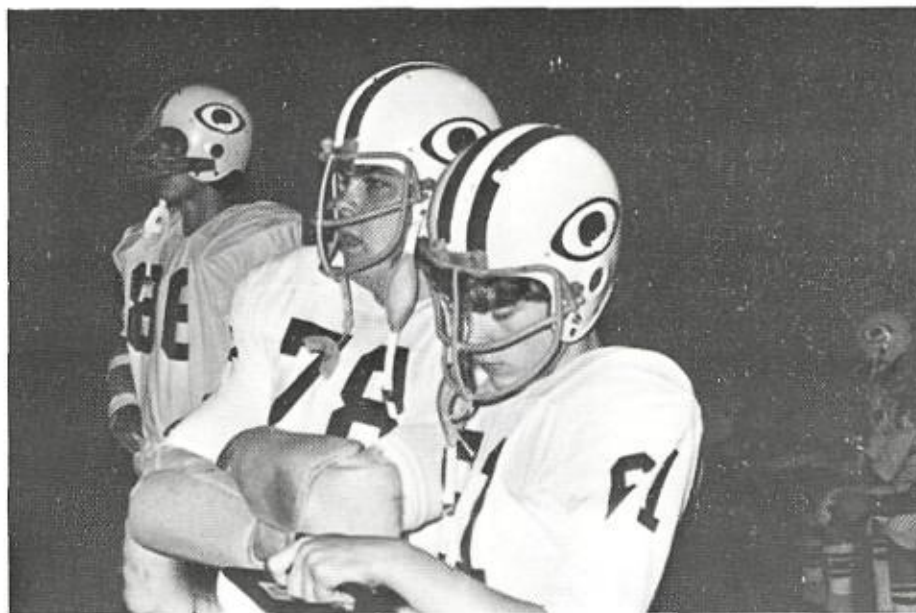

Heartbreaking as it was, the loss epitomized the Quakertown season. The Panthers had 19 first downs to Hatboro's 7, and gained 265 yards to 161 by Hatboro. Yet they still came up on the short end of the score, as they had against Souderton and Wissahickon. Bad Luck? If it was, it continued to follow Quakertown as they lost another pressure game to Pennridge on Thanksgiving day.

As it turned out, Quakertown finished the season 5-5, including losses in four out of their last five games. Yet the 1972 football season had many rewarding moments, and the talent on the team was recognized by opposing Bux-Mont coaches, as was evidenced in the All-Bux-Mont team selections.

Bob Barndt, Tom Petko, and Gary Kellaway made first team offense, and Petko was also named to first team defense, one of only three men in the league to accomplish the feat. Honorable mention was achieved by Craig Latshaw, Curt Barto, Todd Schroy, Rick Saborsky, and Mike Hoff.

Hockey

Although the 1972 hockey season was not as successful as the Pantherettes had hoped, the girls did exhibit a great deal of determination with a will to compete throughout the season. Coaches Mrs. Spayd and Miss Swartley were quite proud of the team's skill exhibited at the Souderton game, in spite of the fact that this concluding game of the season ended in a loss for Quakertown. Both the defense and offense did a most commendable job as they held the second place Souderton team scoreless to the last two minutes of the second half. Unfortunately, during these minutes Souderton scored two goals in quick succession. The team's unfailing spirit and the daily rigorous exercises were led by co-captains Paula Montoney and Lynn Haring.

Action-packed Soccer

The word "success" is definitely applicable to the Quakertown soccer team of 1972. Picked early in the season to be a lower-echelon team, the Panthers won their opener against Hatboro and went on to compile a record of four wins, seven losses and four ties—good enough for a tie for fifth place in the Bux-Mont league, which is considered one of the toughest in the area. Quakertown's hustle and ballhawking coupled with a brand new offense installed by Coach Tom Barrow made the Panthers serious title contenders early in the season, but a multitude of key injuries and inexperience began to take their toll. Despite a couple of heartbreaking losses, such as the overtime struggle against league champ North Penn, which the Panthers lost on a questionable penalty-kick call, the team never lost their determination and came up with some hard-earned victories.

The aggressiveness of the Panthers was epitomized when they played Wissahickon at home. At that time Wissahickon, with four foreign players was definitely the class of the league but they knew they had been in a game when they left Quakertown. The Panther defense was constantly under pressure from Wissahickon's outstanding offense, yet they responded with tremendous effort. All Bux-Mont first teamer, Mike Loew, formed the backbone of the defense at center fullback and used his solid head balls to continuously thwart Wissahickon threats. When the ball did occasionally get past Loew, John Weierbach became a miser in the goal mouth, grabbing shots and repeatedly drilling sixty-yard dropkicks down the field. Weierbach also was a first-team Bux-Mont pick, at goalie. The center of the field was controlled by center halfback Dave Cygan, who was quite skilled at stealing the ball from the opposition and feeding it forward to offenseman, Tom Yost, here going airborne in an attempt to block a Wissahickon shot with his head. Randy Maugle often left defenders standing with his quick bursts of speed. Matt Graybill played both offense and defense, and his dribbling and passing served to control the flow of the Panther attack. Yet despite the effort from these Quakertown seniors, Wissahickon rebounded to win the game turning the day into one of despair for the Panther soccer team.

Even though they lost this particular game, the soccer team had a fine season and were well represented on the all Bux-Mont league team. Besides naming Weierbach and Loew to the first team, Bux-Mont league coaches placed Dave Cygan on the second team and Randy Maugle and Ali Ghazanfari on the honorable mention list.

Cross Country

Quakertown Cross Country suffered this year—not from a lack of talent, or from a lack of effort, but from a lack of numbers. Having a large team in cross country is very important because in order to defeat the opposing team you must garner more places in the final finish than they do. Unfortunately, there were only ten runners on the team this year, and this small number does not compare favorably with such totals as 35 and 30, possessed by other teams in the Bux-Mont league. This obstacle failed to deter the small Panther contingent, however, and they put forth hours of hard practice every afternoon.

Frequently seen leading the squad throughout the woodland trails surrounding the high school was George Wisser. The best, and probably the most dedicated of the Panther runners, he consistently placed high in varsity competition. Wisser was supported by Karl Musselman and Dennis Rupert, the No. 2 and 3 men on the team. These three seniors, as well as the rest of their teammates, were put through their paces day after day by coach Herb Haas, but were rewarded with victory only once.

Their lone win came in the very first meet of the season, at home with Perkiomen Valley. The Panther runners squeaked out a three point victory, 27-30, in the meet but, ironically, a Perkiomen Valley runner won the race. It was a close dual right from the starting gun, as George Wisser and Perkiomen Valley's top man sprinted toward the first turn stride for stride. Coming off the turn, Wisser broke to a slight lead and steadily increased it as the race wore on. Heading into the last mile, Wisser held a ten yard lead, but Perkiomen Valley's man began to slowly close the gap, using Wisser as a windbreak. Coming into the last turn, he had made up the distance and was trailing the leader by half a stride, and it was evident that the finish would be extremely close. Wisser made a bad turn at the final corner, taking it too wide. Seeing his opportunity, the PV runner cut inside Wisser, and began sprinting the last seventy yards for the tape. George, who had lost his lead, began his dash to the line also, but he was out-kicked by his opponent, and lost by a second.

The pressure was now on the rest of the team. They would have to beat their opponents and place high to insure a Quakertown victory. They responded to the situation by taking three of the next four places, including a 3rd and a 4th by seniors Karl Musselman and Dennis Rupert respectively. This clinched the victory for the Panthers—their first and, unfortunately, their last of the season. As it turned out, the small Quakertown team could not cope with the bigger squads in the league.

The 1972 season was highlighted by the “Cake Race.” Organized by the coaches and members of the cross country team. The “Cake Race” was a challenge issued by the team, daring any member of the student body or faculty to run the cross country course with them. Cakes, supplied by the girls' hockey team, were to be awarded to the top ten finishers. Despite cold temperatures, the turnout was large, and contained many girls as well as boys. As was expected, the race was won by Mr. Ken Bogle, a junior high school teacher with the longest stride in Quakertown. Afterwards, there were refreshments and cake for all.

The Finalists

Rifle Squad

The Quakertown Rifle Team tied for second place in the league this year with three wins, one loss, and one tie. They achieved this record with the help of their faculty adviser, John Griffith and co-captains, Linda Hahn and Frederick Hammel.

During practices, this year, they had a total of 57 targets, each with a score of 100. The team's most exciting moments of the season came with the individual's competition which was scheduled in Quakertown this year on March 2. Six schools participated in the individual's event with three students from each of the schools representing their respective teams. Our rifle team took three out of ten places. Fred Hammel won third place with a score of 199-15X. Glen Johnson won eighth place with a score of 197-15X, and Jan Poggi won ninth place with a score of 197-15X.

Highlighting the season's work on the rifle range were Linda Setman, David Crouthamel, Ray Cochrane, and Glen Johnson, all achieving a perfect 100-10X score.

Perhaps it would be better not to talk about the 1972-73 Quakertown basketball team. Certainly, they were not one of the best teams in Quakertown history. In fact, their overall record of 1-19 was the worst ever in Quakertown history. This is not as bad as it sounds, however, when you consider some of the obstacles that the Panther's team had to face during the season.

The first and foremost of these was height. Among starters, Craig Latshaw, the center at 6'2" was the tallest. This does not stack up too well against some of the 6'6" and 6'7" pivotmen in the Bux-Mont league. The lack of height hurt the Panthers on both offense and defense. Quakertown had speed and quickness on the team this year, but they could not utilize it effectively in the running game because they had no big men to crash the boards and clear the outlet pass to a waiting guard to start the fast break. The height problem was also a factor in defense because the Panthers had no big men to act as shot blockers and intimidators underneath. Also, the Panthers didn't have enough height to clear the defensive boards and so the opposition often got easy tipins and layups.

Another obstacle for Quakertown this year was lack of experience. Of the five starters, only one, Latshaw, had started the year before.

These obstacles did not deter the Panther cagers in their efforts, however, and their determination was far from lacking. Individually, John Weierbach was the leading scorer on the team, hitting the cords for 216 points during the year, for 12.0 average. Craig Latshaw was by far the leading rebounder, helped out in that department by Curt Barto, whose speed triggered the fast break.

Coach Don Young retired at the end of the 1972-73 season because of health reasons after having coached for 18 years. Over this span he amassed a record of 167-199, including two Bux-Mont championships, the last of which occurred during the 1969-1970 season. His will certainly be a hard record to follow.

Girls' Basketball . . .

First Row: C. Shelly, R. Stover, R. Roth, B. Deuble, V. Huegel, M. Green, K. Ruppel. Second Row: Mrs. Murray, J. Castellon, K. Wilson, L. Davco, S. Kalasz, S. Barndt, J. Adams, Miss Throop. Third Row: K. Deuble, P. Barndt, J. Krauss, C. Cramp, B. Neiman, R. Shoemaker, J. Stover. Fourth Row: C. Heller, M. Bobb, J. Worthington, C. Wonsidler, L. Church, J. Nielson, C. Bobb, D. Fronheiser, T. Barndt.

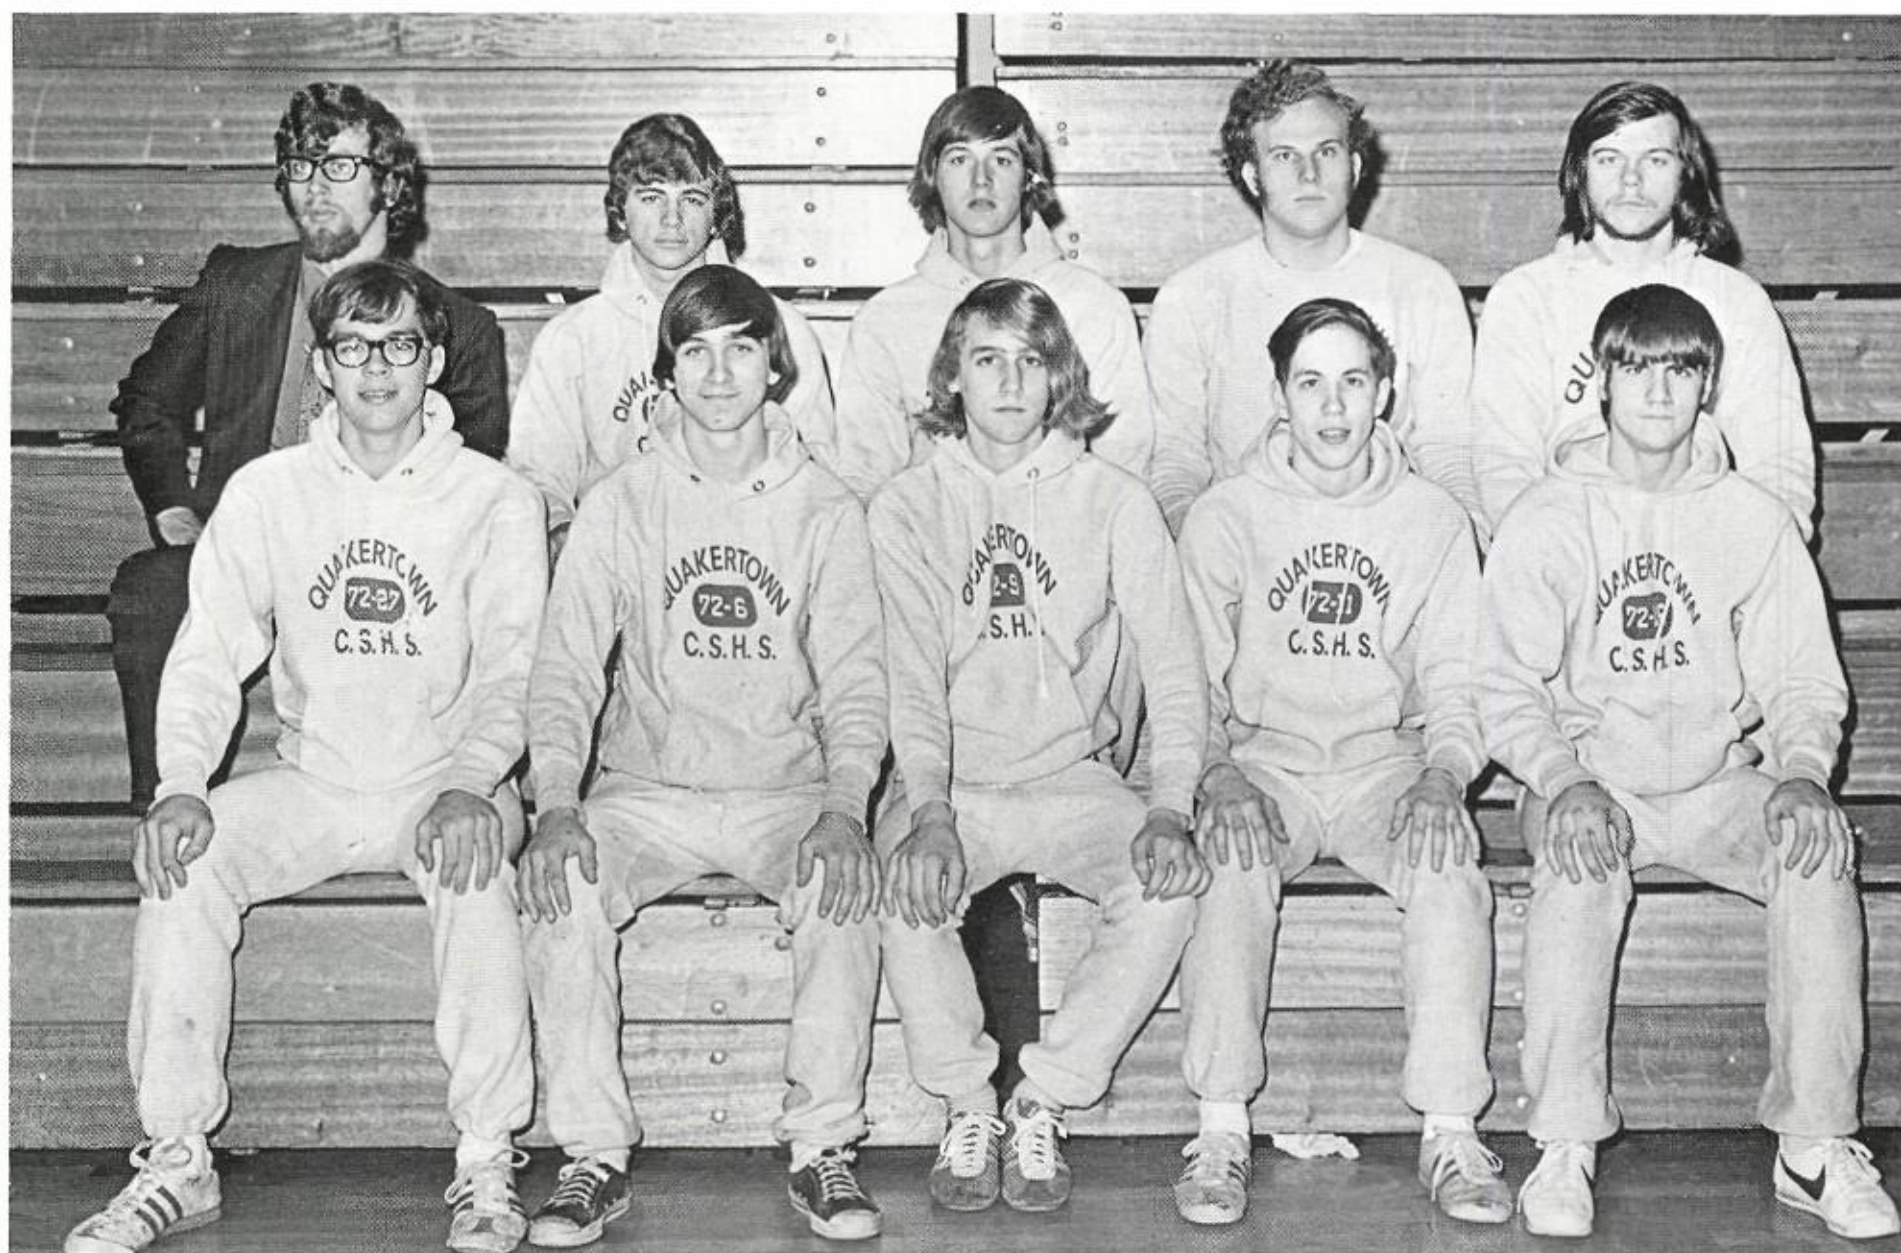

The girls' basketball team ended their season with a record of 3-6. This record, however, is not exemplary of the effort exerted by this closely-knit group of girls. The team witnessed their unity which expressed itself in a tension-filled three point win over our rival school, Pennridge. Varsity coach, Miss Throop, and Junior Varsity coach, Mrs. Murray, agreed that the girls played their finest game in another three point win, which was the surprising upset over third-place Hatboro-Horsham. After four quarters had been played, the score was tied 38-38. In a three-minute overtime the Pantherettes overcame their opponents with speed and determination, terminating the game with a score of 45-52.

Although the purpose of a team is to improve upon skills and to challenge rival teams, the girls enjoyed good comradeship and learned good sportsmanship at the daily practices. The most memorable practices were those in which the girls outscored the boys' wrestling team and were defeated when pitted against the winter track team.

Playing for the last season of their high school careers were seniors: Barbara Deuble, Marjorie Green, Valerie Huegel, Paula Montoney, Robin Roth, Cathy Shelly, and Robin Stover.

Winter Track

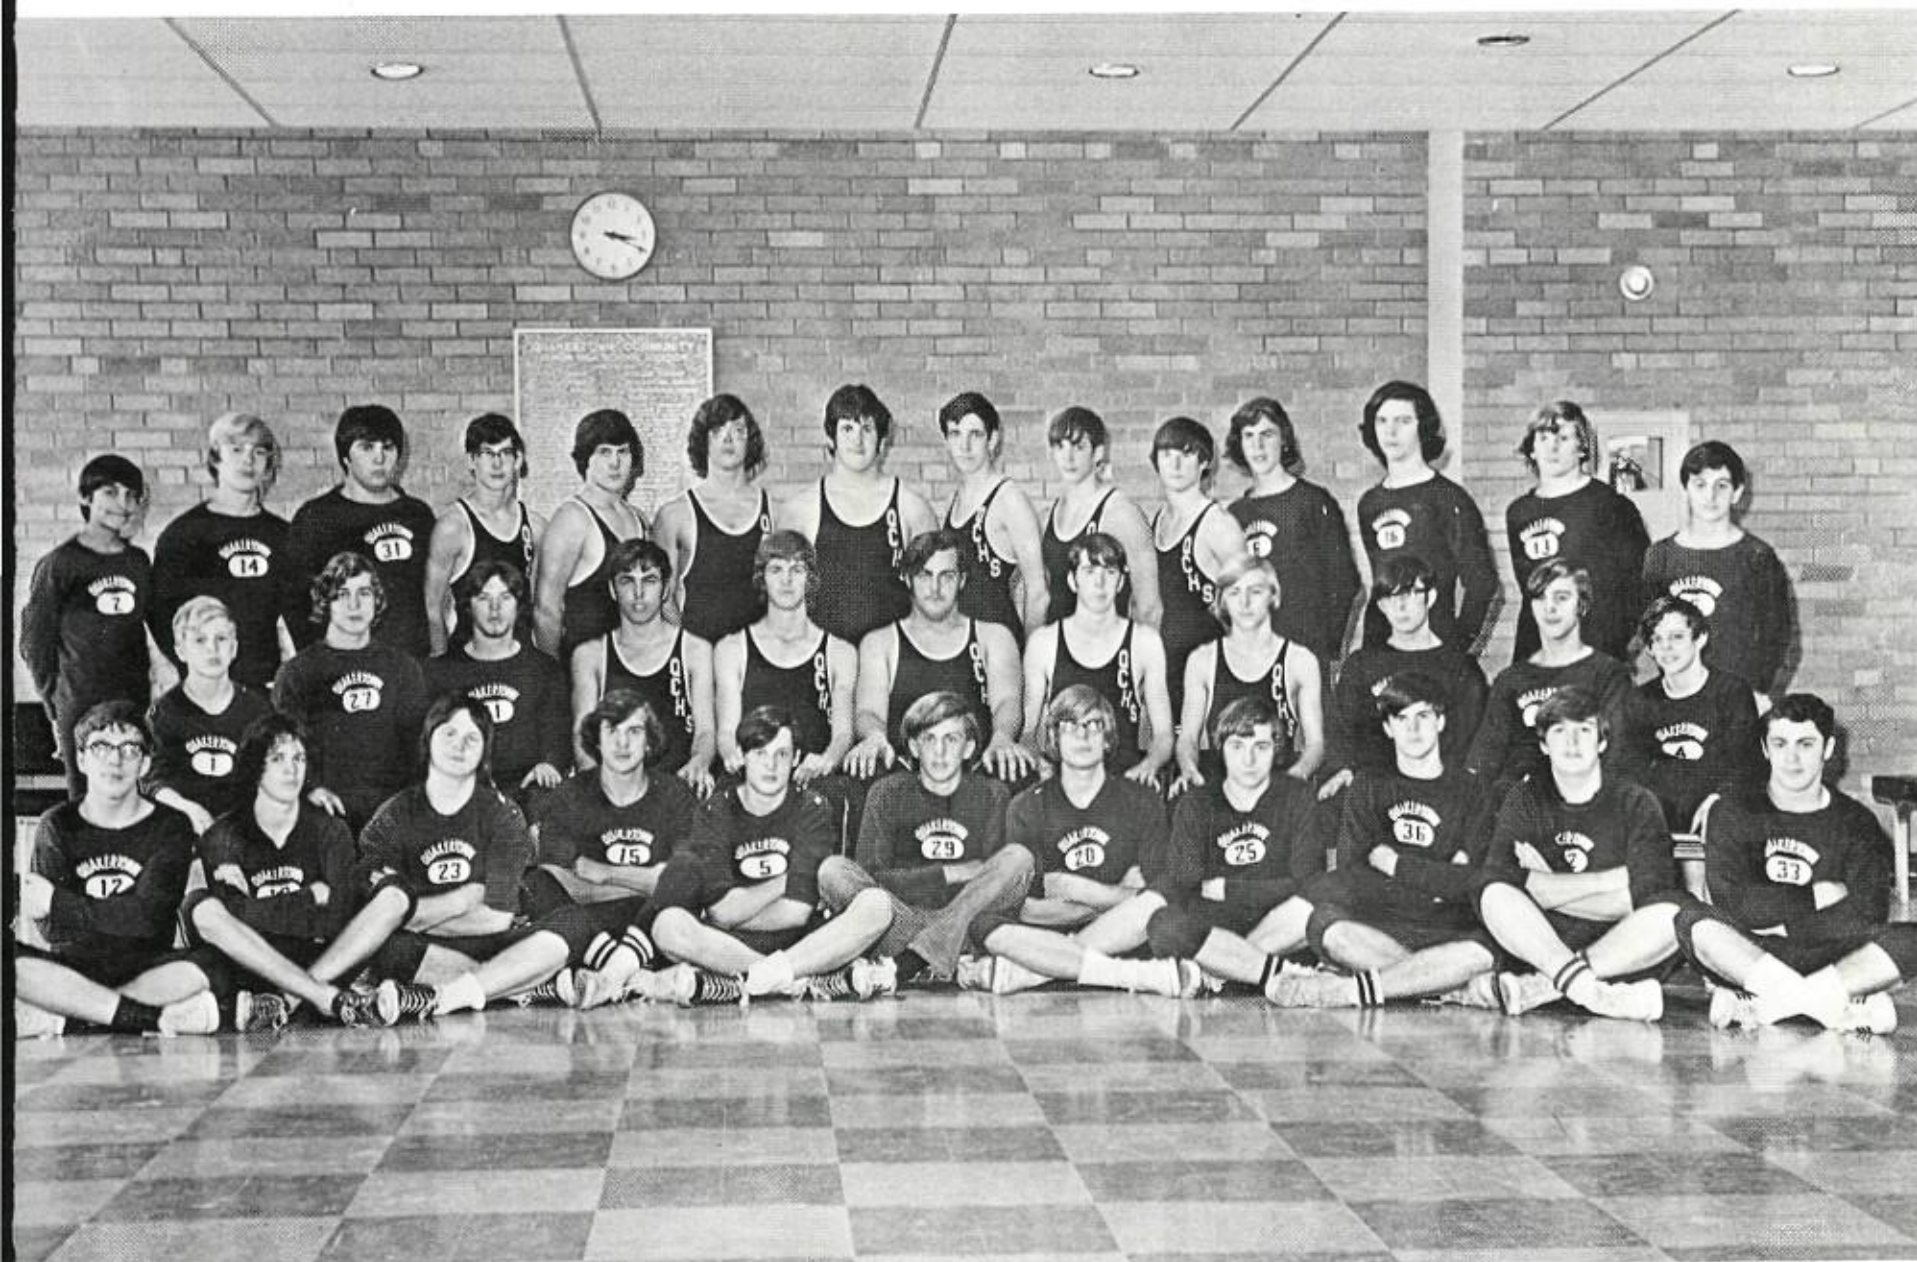

First Row: G. Wissner, E. Ondra, T. Brzezicki, R. Bergey, R. Maugle. Second Row: Mr. Bogle, J. Landis, C. Kernechel, D. Anderson, E. Waterfield.

Winter Track is a unique sport, and it takes unique individuals. Boys who are willing to go out day after day, in below freezing weather, to run anywhere from 1 to 10 miles. Boys who are willing to spend hours on the road running such infamous routes as the "double-loop Q-mart," which consists of two laps around the Quakertown West apartments, south on Old Bethlehem Pike, east on Station Road, past the Q-mart, down Park Avenue to the school and the parking-lot stretch. Winter track takes boys who are willing to get up at 5 a.m. on Saturday mornings in order to take a three hour bus trip into the heart of Philadelphia; or deep into the Pocono mountains to run at college field houses. And the competition? Well, it is probably the best in the state. Boys from over 75 schools trying to garner the coveted medals awarded to the top four finishers in each event. In this respect, Quakertown enjoyed perhaps its finest year ever. Frequent medal winners for the Panthers were Donny

Anderson, for the shot put; Randy Maugle for the high jump; and George Wissner, a one-time medal winner in the two mile run. All three of these boys competed in the Meet of Champions at Princeton University at the end of the season, an honor reserved for only the elite of the winter track world.

This hardy group of running fanatics is led by Boston marathoner Ken Bogle, the head coach, and somewhat of a running fanatic himself. Mr. Bogle (world-record holder in the esteemed Quakertown cake race) earned the respect of his team by setting rigorous workouts, and then running them himself. He drove the team hard in practice and it eventually paid off in the meets, where Quakertown athletes carted off more medals than in any previous year. Success draws respect, and winter track is slowly getting the recognition it deserves.

Wrestling

First Row: S. Okam, S. Frederick, J. Butterer, M. Miller, D. Williams, J. Morrow, T. Schnabel, C. Tirjan, J. Fluck, S. Kooker, S. Rush. Second Row: P. Dorney, D. Jones, D. Weissman, G. Weyer, S. Byrd, K. Roberts, R. Vogel, S. Waterfield, G. Hein, T. Palmissano.

With only seven returning lettermen, the team's final record of 2-10-0 wasn't just. The team did very well on individual honors with Tom Petko, runner up, in both the Emmaus Christmas Invitational Wrestling Tournament and the Bux-Mont Sectionals in the 185 lb. class. Petko had an impressive 9-5-1 record. Scott Fluck, a senior letterman, boasted a record of 5-2. He was out for part of the season but returned with a beautiful comeback. Another returning senior, Scott Brennaman started out slowly, but came up fast to finish with a 7-6 record. Brennaman made it to the semi-finals but was defeated by the future champ. Junior, Mark Setman showed fans at the Emmaus and Bux-Mont Sectional Tournaments who was boss. He won 1st place in both tournaments, at the 95 pound class respectively. Pete Dorney, a sophomore, showed an impressive record of 9-6. He was also a winner in the Emmaus Tournament. He wrestled in the 90 lb. class. Coaches Tom Barrow and Earl Rodenberger held high hopes for the season and brought out great individual wrestlers.

Girls' Softball

The girls' softball team eagerly started practice February 26 under the new direction of Mr. John Roth and Miss Becky Swartley.

Along with the new season and new coaching staff came a new feeling of determination. Many hours of batting and fielding practice went into the success of the '73 team.

Seniors playing their last season for Q.C.H.S. were Marjorie Green, Kris Hoffman, Valerie Huegel, Paula Montoney, Barbara Shelly, Cathy Shelly, and Sabrina Wenhold.

Golf

The Golf team for 1973 is led by only two seniors, Terry "Snake" Renninger and Eugene Kotulka. However, these two, who both shoot in the high 80's, are bolstered by a young but talented squad. Included among the eight teammates who will play in the matches this year are juniors Mike Johnson, Randy Molnar, Gordon Bryan, sophomore Tom Detweiler, and freshmen Stephen Stancick and Thomas Wallace.

This octet, coached ably by Herb Haas, has the talent and experience to place well in league matches this year. Matches will be won by the team recording the lowest number of strokes in 12 holes of play, and the Quakertown swingers will be able to match par with the best in the league.

Boys' Tennis

The 1973 Boys' Tennis team is looking forward to a successful year. Returning from last year is senior John Weierbach, last year's Bux-Mont singles champion. Supporting him at the number two spot is another senior, Bob Faussett. Playing in the 3rd and 4th spots are two juniors, Larry Kreider and Scott Latshaw.

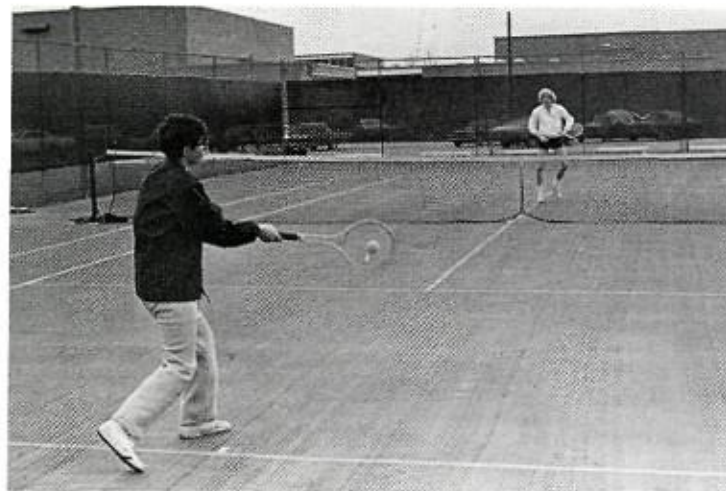

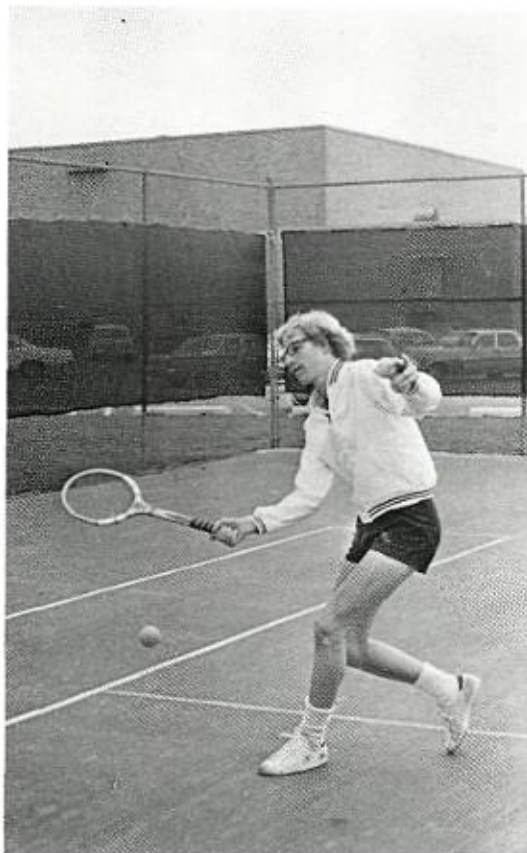

Weierbach should win most of his matches this year, and with a little support from the other singles and doubles players, coach Joe Little's squad will attain a better record in the Bux-Mont League than in any previous year.

... longer ... higher ... faster ...

1973 has been labeled a "rebuilding" year for the Panther track squad. One of the smallest teams in Quakertown track history, the Panthers have only ten seniors to carry the load of dual-meet competition. Yet this small contingent contains enough dedication and desire to make the season a successful one for head coach Elwood MacWhorter, Jr. and assistants, James Taylor and Thomas Viccaro.

For sprinting, the Panthers have speedsters Curt Barto, Tom Yost, and Gary Hawkins, all of whom have broken 11 seconds in the 100 yard dash. Co-Captain Barto is the fastest of the trio, running a 10.5 one hundred last year to become one of the speediest juniors on record at Quakertown. Barto and Yost were also part of last year's 880 relay team, also one of the fastest in Quakertown history. All three are in the relay this year, along with Bob Barndt.

For middle distance, the Panthers have Frank Cavanaugh, Ray Bergey, and Carl Musselman. Cavanaugh and Bergey run the half mile, and also compete in the two mile relay. Musselman's specialty is the mile run, but he also runs the half-mile on occasion.

The long distance chores are handled by George Wisser. The senior co-captain owns the two-mile-run sophomore and junior records at Quakertown, and captured 3rd place in the Bux-Mont championship meet last year in this grueling race. He occasionally gets the call for the mile run, and the two-mile relay.

In the field events, Quakertown is relying largely on the talents of three seniors, Matt Graybill, Randy Maugle, and Earl Waterfield. Graybill throws the javelin as his main event, and also competes in the high jump and 330 intermediate hurdles. Waterfield is the top man in the high hurdles and competes in the long and triple jumps. Randy Maugle, called "Mr. Quick" by his teammates because of his agility, is the mainstay of the Panther jumpers.

With the efforts of these seniors rests the success of the 1973 Quakertown track team.

Thank you,
 Class of 1973

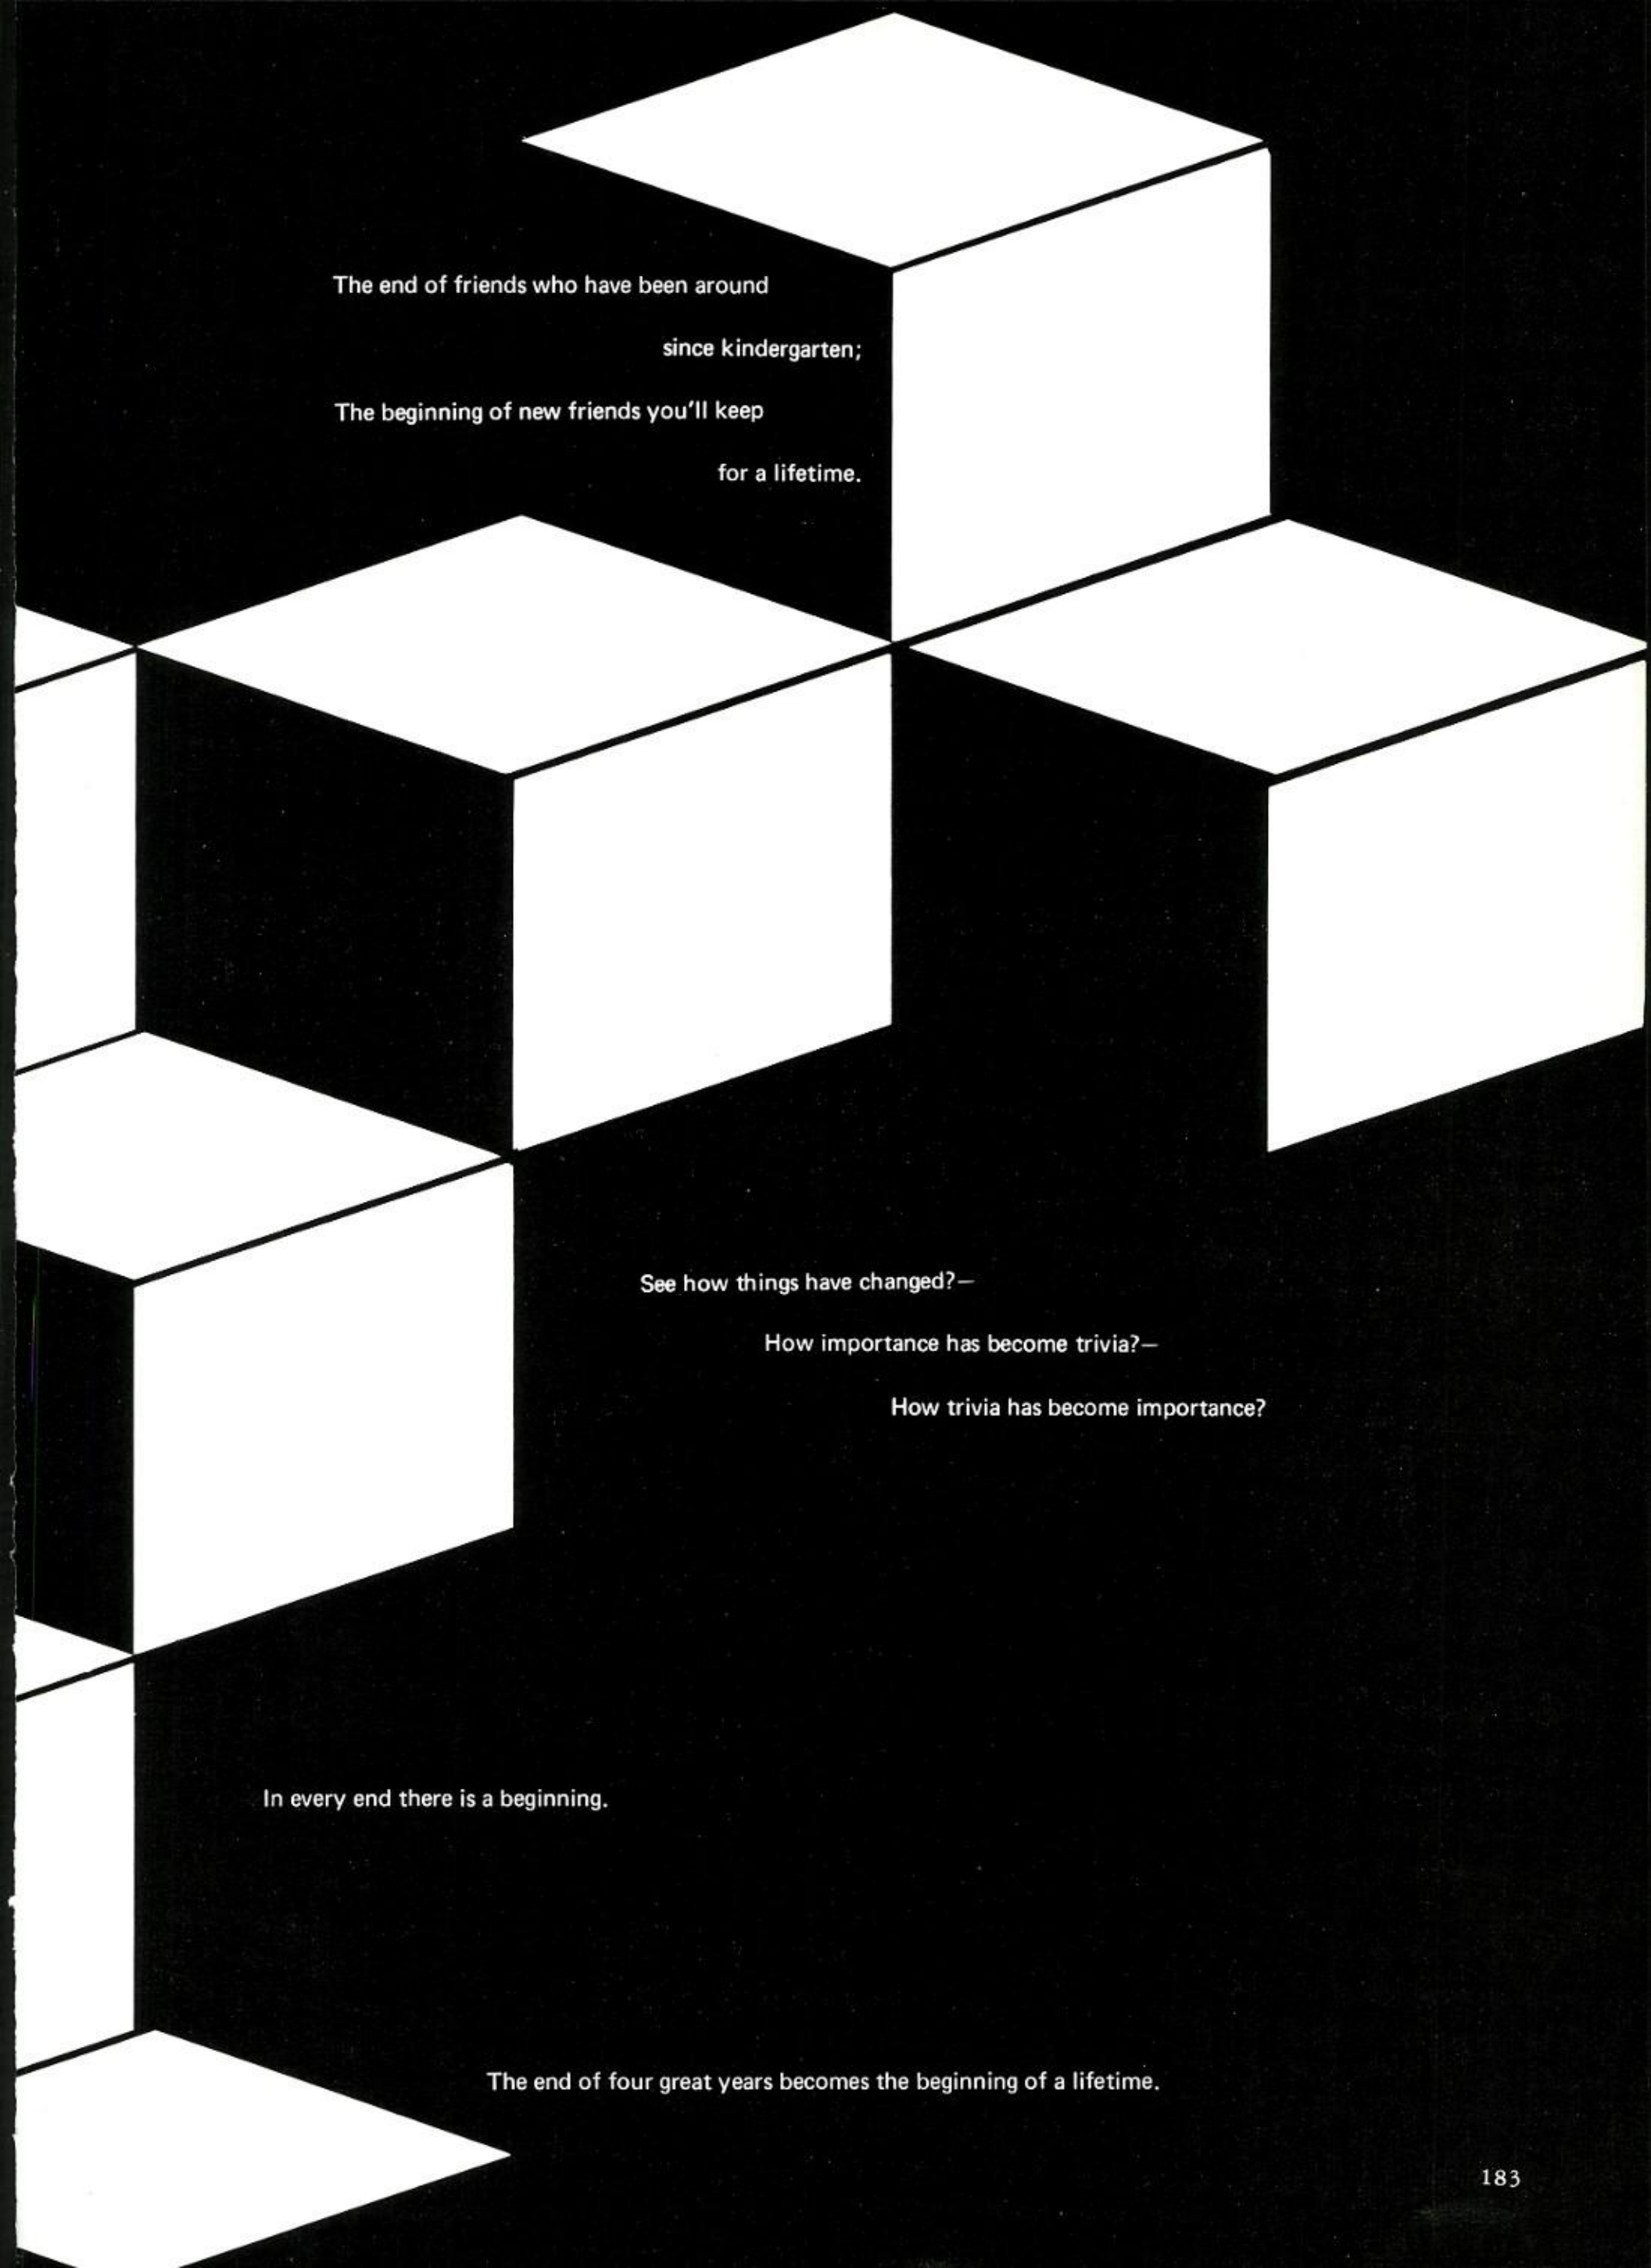

In every end there is a beginning.—

The end of teachers, notebook paper, and yellow Princess pencils (no. 2);
The beginning of professors, erasable bond,
and fountain pens.

The end of 8:00 to 3:08;
The beginning of "nine to five."

The end of brown book covers with Jefferson's face inked with horns and a beard;
The beginning of "Penn State" or "Princeton" book covers decorated with the school mascot in the school colors.

The background of the page is a black and white abstract geometric pattern. It consists of several white cubes or rectangular blocks arranged in a staggered, overlapping fashion. The perspective is from a low angle, looking up at the blocks. The blocks are defined by sharp, clean lines, creating a strong sense of three-dimensional space. The lighting is dramatic, with the white surfaces of the blocks standing out against the deep black background. The overall effect is one of modern, minimalist design.

The end of friends who have been around since kindergarten;
The beginning of new friends you'll keep for a lifetime.

See how things have changed?—
How importance has become trivia?—
How trivia has become importance?

In every end there is a beginning.

The end of four great years becomes the beginning of a lifetime.
